British Gob Held On AWOL Charge

Navy Man Away From Ship Since Last Month's Visit of Vessel

Thomas Charles Harvey, stoker mechanic, first class, British Royal Navy, who apparently had been absent without leave since the visit of HMS Burghead Bay to Albany last month, was arrested here early yesterday on an AWOL charge.

A police report at 1:50 a. m., said Harvey was arrested on Wall street by Officers Meyer Levy and John Crespino. The Albany police had reported him AWOL through a message filed Sept. 18, but they were no longer interested since the ship had left port, local police said.

Kingston police sent a message to New York police to be forwarded to immigration authorities, and Harvey was held at the county jail pending arrival of officers.

Local police indicated Harvey had made acquaintances here when the Burghead Bay docked off Kingston Point early last month.

Heavy Chinese Artillery Fire Does Trick After Marines Take Hill

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 27 (AP)—Punishing Red artillery fire tonight drove U.S. Marines off the crest of "the hook" a few hours after they recaptured the western ridgeline in bitter close-quarter fighting.

A Marine officer at the front said the leathernecks pulled back from the crest and forward slopes at 8:55 p. m.

There was no indication whether the Chinese communists moved up to occupy the high ground.

The Reds earlier had attacked with 2,000 men along a three-mile front.

The Marine officer said "The Communists made only a small penetration in our line. It was contained and never got out of hand."

Main target was the hook and Marine outposts along a three-mile sector to the north. The hook is about 10 or 12 miles east of Panmunjom, site of the recessed armistice talks.

Attack Well Executed

The Marine officer said the Chinese attack was well-planned and well executed.

The leathernecks of the U.S. First Marines rolled with the punch, then started a series of counterattacks that carried them back to the top.

From the central front, AP correspondent John Randolph reported Chinese troops made brief stabs at UN positions on Triangle and Sniper Ridge, scene of bitter fighting last week.

Allied forces Sunday beat back 400 North Korean Reds who attacked Heartbreak Ridge, on the eastern front. The Reds made several problems in the same area Monday.

Repeats Intention of Going to East, if Elected Next Week

Aboard Eisenhower Special in Pennsylvania, Oct. 27 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, opening his final drive of the election campaign, said today he will not be turned aside by any criticism from the view that South Korean troops should man the major portion of the battleline in Korea against the Communists.

He told a Philadelphia crowd jammed into the big concourse of the Pennsylvania Railroad's 30th street station that he holds this view "entirely aside from any political considerations."

Eisenhower repeated his determination to go to Korea himself if he is elected President.

This statement, first made last Friday in Detroit, brought a barrage of critical comment from the Democrats and Eisenhower apparently was referring to this reaction when he said he would not be deflected by criticisms.

Adlai Ridicules Him

Governor Adlai Stevenson, his Democratic opponent for the presidency, has ridiculed Eisenhower's pledge, declaring that the solution to the Korean war lies in Moscow and not in Korea.

The GOP nominee's first campaign talk of this final week in his drive came before a cheering crowd in the marble-floored concourse. Eisenhower stood on a law platform before a huge bronze bust of Winged Victory that is the railroad's memorial to its employes who died in World War 2.

Police Commissioner Thomas Gibbons said, when the speech was finished, that about 4,000 persons had been in the huge amphitheatre.

Pays His Tribute

For a moment, the one-time European commander of all allied forces paid tribute to the war dead honored by the memorial.

"They, so many of them, had to die." He said, "they believed in something. They believed they were fighting and if necessary dying for something men have been dying for since the dawn of history . . . the right of men, the freedom of men."

He said the reason he brought this up was because the threat to the world today is a doctrine that

Texas Votes May Be Key To Election

State's 24 Electoral Are Sixth Biggest Block in U.S.; Split Receives Wide Notice

Result: Uncertain

Second Survey Brings Report Nothing Sure in State

(There are six big states which have, among them, more than one-third of all the electoral votes in the country. In addition, in this campaign every one of the "big six" is a red-hot battleground with both parties fighting for those choice blocks of votes right down to the night of Nov. 3. In a series of daily stories, the Associated Press is presenting the picture in these states, as seen by experienced AP political writers on the scene. The first story, on Texas, appears below.)

By DAVE CHEAVENS

Austin, Tex., Oct. 27 (AP)—Two and a half million Texas voters may hold the key to the White House door for either Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Texas' 24 electoral votes—sixth biggest block in the nation—are in doubt for the first time since 1928 and the second time this century.

Alliance is Open

A Democratic rebellion that splintered off segments of the once-solid Texas party in 1944 and 1948 split it wide open this year.

For the first time in history, a Democratic governor of Texas has joined the Republicans in backing their presidential candidate. Gov. Allan Shivers' simmering displeasure with New Deal and Fair Deal policies boiled over when Gov. Adlai Stevenson said he could not agree with Texas claims to submerged offshore lands and their potential — and disputed — oil wealth.

The revolt brought an open alliance between Shivers, his established state party machinery and a militant Republican organization making its first serious effort in a quarter of a century to win the Texas electoral vote. Nothing like it had ever happened in historically-Democratic Texas.

Both Paid Court

The outcome is so uncertain that both parties sent their presidential candidates criss-crossing the state, setting another precedent in election year strategy. Never before had both parties found it necessary or desirable to barnstorm Texas with their top men.

The Associated Press' second 1952 survey of political thinking in Texas confirmed the professional politicians' views that in mid-October the outcome here was uncertain. In August the survey by newspapermen showed they believed Eisenhower held a narrow margin, with many voters uncertain.

The uprising by Shivers and other state democratic leaders such as Atty. Gen. Price Daniel, unopposed nominee for the U.S. Senate, was met by a combat team from the national party. It was headed by House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Rank and File Watched

The big question today is whose side the rank and file voters will join, especially the large number still apparently undecided. Texas' potential vote is 2,500,000 and best estimates are the turn-out will be another record-breaking 1,500,000 to 1,800,000.

The voters may stay hitched with Democratic tradition, backed by appeals to their distrust of Republicans generally, fear of depression, and prosperity arguments.

Or they may line up with Shivers who says the issue is "good government or bad, Trumanism, corruption, creeping socialism" and especially the question of who controls offshore submerged lands

Ten Persons Are Hurt in Accidents

Series of Crashes Listed in Area Keep Six in Hospital — Runs Off Thruway

Auto Overturns

Vehicle Which Leaves Road Climbs Rocks at Embankment

Six persons were hospitalized here as the result of weekend accidents reported to state police and the sheriff's office. Four others were released after emergency room treatment.

A head-on collision of two automobiles at 12:30 a. m. Sunday on the Onteora Trail at the Glenford road intersection injured six persons, according to a sheriff's office report.

Admitted to Kingston Hospital were Marion S. Baum, 41, of 58 DeMott avenue, Baldwin, and Frederick E. King, 35, of 55 DeMott avenue. The sheriff's office report stated that Miss Baum suffered facial cuts and a chest injury, and King suffered shock and a right knee injury. The other four, who were released after treatment, were listed by the sheriff's office as Frederick Kellerhouse, 25, Elizabeth Kellerhouse, 21, Adain Stoutenburg, 22, all of West Hurley, and Mary L. DuBois, 11, of Glenford.

Stopped for Traffic

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, Deputy Sheriff Albert Eisele and Jailor Wesley O'Brien reported that the Kellerhouse automobile had stopped on Route 28 to allow traffic in the opposite direction to pass when the collision occurred with an automobile driven by Miss Baum. Front ends of both vehicles were wrecked, they reported.

While Eisele was at Kingston Hospital checking on the injured from the Route 28 accident, he reported at 2 a. m. Sunday that Irving H. Bell, 34, of West Shokan was admitted with a deep laceration over his left eye and possible internal injuries apparently suffered in a one-car accident near Krumville. Eisele said that Bell was unable to remember any details of the accident due to a condition of shock. Bell's condition was reported as "fair" by hospital authorities this morning.

Three Others Hurt

Three other persons were injured about 5 p. m. Saturday when the automobile in which they were riding plunged off the end of the recently completed section of Thruway near Sawkill, climbed a five-foot mount of rocks and dirt and overturned down an embankment, state police of the Kingston station reported.

Theodore Johnson, 76, a passenger, suffered chest and face injuries, the troopers said, and was reported in "fair" condition at Kingston Hospital this morning. Also injured were Harry Houghton, 34, listed as the driver, and his wife, Fannie, 31, both of whom were reported in "good" condition at the hospital this morning. All three were from Baldwin, according to the report. Troopers described the automobile as "demolished."

No Personal Injuries

In other area accidents investigated by state police and the sheriff's office, no personal injuries were reported.

About 1 p. m. Sunday, Vernon E. Scott, 44, of Poughkeepsie told sheriff's men his automobile and one driven by Roger D. Bradley of Queens Village sideswiped each other on Lucas avenue extension in the town of Rosendale, with damage to the left front sides of both vehicles.

Lawrence Adin of 57 East Strand, manager of Adin's Market, and Henry Foster, 49, of Mechanicsville reported in person to the sheriff's office at 1:45 p. m. Sunday that their two automobiles were involved in a rear-end collision on Route 9W near the Tropical Inn at Port Ewen.

State police of Highland reported that automobiles driven by William Simpson, 43, of Esopus and Leo Reichert, 22, of Union Center collided as Reichert's car was passing Simpson's on a road one mile west of Union Center, and the same authorities reported that an automobile driven by Kenneth W. Anderson, 31, of Poughkeepsie was damaged when it struck a rock along Route 9W one mile south of Marlborough after its left rear tire blew out about 2:30 a. m. today.

Nixon Goes to Texas

Chicago, Oct. 27 (AP)—Sen. Richard M. Nixon headed by plane for Texas today to address seven audiences in 10 hours as he stepped up the tempo of his whirlwind campaign for the vice presidency. The Republican running mate of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, a spokesman said, will answer the Democrats' claim, "You never had it so good," with a development of the theme, "There are 110,000 boys in Korea who have never had it so bad."

Miners Are Ordered Back by Union Boss

Night Sky in Korea

Tracers, mortar shells and phosphorous bombs from artillery, plus a galaxy of flares dropped from planes, tear open the black Korean skies in the Pike's Peak and Triangle Hill area. In this rugged terrain, UN troops are putting up large scale battles against screaming hordes of Chinese Reds who attack after dark and fight until dawn.

Act Comes After Talk At Capital

Work in Pits to Resume Pending Union Appeal of $1.90 a Day Pay Boost

Expects Approval

Lewis' Aides Point Out He Expects Action in Day or Two

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—John L. Lewis today ordered striking soft coal miners to go back to work at once.

The chief of the United Mine Workers messaged all union district officers that it was his opinion work should be resumed pending government reconsideration of whether the miners may have a $1.90 a day pay increase which the industry has agreed to. The Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) trimmed the rise to $1.50, holding that a higher boost would violate the government's anti-inflation program.

President Truman had appealed directly to Lewis to get the miners back to work.

HST Resumes Tour

Truman invited Lewis to the White House last night and made the request. Lewis promised cooperation. Immediately after this conference, the President left on his final political campaign tour.

The industry and the union have jointly appealed the decision of the wage board. Their appeal is to Roger Putnam, economic stabilization director, who has authority to overrule board decisions.

Associates of Lewis have made it plain that he expects the full pay raise will be approved in a day or two.

Union headquarters made public the following telegram from Lewis to district officers: (About 150)

"The joint industry request to the executive branch of the government for approval of the industry agreement is pending. It will require a reasonable time for review of attendant facts and reaching of the decision.

"It is my opinion that our industry should be operating during that period and then that the best interests of the mine workers and the public will thus be served.

Asks Early Operation

"I am therefore requesting an immediate resumption of operation at all mines in all districts and I am urging each member of our union to return to work at once.

"Please notify all local unions and all members of the message and utilize the services of all offices and field representatives in notifying the membership and requesting their fullest cooperation. Please acknowledge receipt of this telegram and state what steps are being taken in your district."

Even before the Lewis telegram was made public here, its receipt had been made known by one district union leader, John Busarello, at Pittsburgh. He heads District 5.

Busarello said he expected some miners to go back to work on the shift ordinarily reporting at 4 p. m.

Miners Are Contacted

"We're trying to get word to the miners as fast as possible," he said. "We'll do everything to comply with the orders of the boss."

The 24-minute formal meeting between Truman and Lewis, who had been political foes during the past four years, wound up with Truman taking the union leader on a personally-conducted tour of the recently refurnished White House.

This seemed to spell a new era of friendship between the two. Only four years ago Lewis opposed Truman's election, calling the President "a malignant

Hunt for Killer Is Made by Troopers

U.S. Supreme Court Has Kelly's Case

Counsel Asks Justices Rule on Rights of Convicted Man

Whether the constitutional rights of Edward H. Kelly have been violated and a new trial should be granted, rests today with the United States Supreme Court. Kelly stands convicted of the murder of Mrs. Eloise McHugh in this city on May 22, 1950.

Saturday Whitman Knapp, counsel for Kelly, appeared before Justice Jackson of the U. S. Supreme court and asked for a stay of execution in order to present to the country's highest court the proposition that Kelly was deprived of his constitutional rights and should have a new trial. Kelly stands convicted and sentenced to die in the electric chair this week unless the U. S. Supreme Court intervenes, or Governor Thomas E. Dewey grants clemency.

Following presenment of the application for a stay by Knapp, Justice Jackson reserved decision on the applicatioin until today in order that the matter may be presented to the entire court. That court will meet today for the purpose of determining the matter, it was stated.

Should the court determine Kelly's constitutional rights have not been violated, he will be put to death at Sing Sing prison some time this week. Should the United States Supreme court find Kelly's rights have been violated a new trial probably will be ordered.

Hudson Valley Concerns File Bad Check Charges

Newton, N. J., Oct. 27 (AP)—A Quakerstown, Pa., man was held in Sussex county jail awaiting grand jury action on a charge that he passed $4,000 in bad checks.

Clarence R. Daniels, 44, of Mill Hill road, Quakertown, was ordered held in 4,000 bail at his arraignment Saturday.

Daniels was arrested in Trenton Friday on a complaint by the Jaeger Auction Market of Sussex. The livestock company charged that Daniels purchased cattle from them, giving them two worthless checks totaling over $4,000.

State police said the Pine Bush Livestock Co., of Middletown, N. Y., also has a similar complaint filed against Daniels for $6,287, and another company in Newburgh, N. Y., has filed a complaint for $3,791.

Police said four plainclothesmen arrested Daniels in Clinton street station, Trenton, Friday when he made an appointment to see Fred Jaeger of the Sussex Market there.

Quakes Are Reported

Tokyo, Oct. 27 (AP)—Northern Honshu quivered through 85 light earthquakes last night that sent terrified Japanese fleeing to the mountains. No damage was reported, except to the nerves.

Police Say Slayer of Men Might Have Been Poacher

Tuxedo Park, Oct. 27 (AP)—The hunt for the killer of two sportsmen in a lonely mountain forest today centered in two places—the crime laboratories and along the forest trails.

A dozen state troopers, trained in the woodsman's art, scouted anew the wild, rugged forest area, where a banker and a town clerk were found shot down beside a dead deer.

The newly-slain deer was the basis of one police theory that the two were slain by a poacher, caught in the act of violating the law against deer hunting at this season.

The two dead men were Charles E. Simpson, 38, a banker from Saddle River, N. J., and Robert Nugent, 46, town clerk of Ramapo, who issued licenses to many hunters in the area.

Each was shot twice, in the body and the head, with a 12-gauge shotgun. Five empty shells were found in a hollow about 15 feet from their bodies.

Clues Are Sought

Police searched today for further clues — bits of clothing, tracks, or camp sites. They also were questioning local hill folk, some of whom reportedly resent game regulations and city hunters.

At Middletown an autopsy was scheduled today on the slug-torn bodies of the two men. Ballistic experts were studying the shells at the State Police Crime Laboratory at Troy.

Simpson and Nugent, a footless war veteran, had left their homes Saturday afternoon to shoot squirrel and partridge. Two teen-age squirrel hunters stumbled on their bodies yesterday.

Their jeep was parked on the overgrown trail nearby.

Investigators believed Nugent's job may have contributed to his

Air Force Transport Falls After Takeoff From Stewart Field; 3 Survive

Newburgh, Oct. 27 (AP) — A twin-engined air force transport plane crashed today in the Hudson river north of here and sank, reportedly carrying three men to their death.

Three others aboard escaped from the sinking craft. One of them swam to shore, and two others were picked up by boatmen.

Witnesses said the C-45 apparently was trying to make a belly-landing on the water. It hit the river, and went under about 150 yards off the west shore.

Six men were aboard the plane.

The plane took off from Stewart Field Air Force Base near here on a flight to Burlington, Vt.

Two of the survivors were taken to the base hospital, and

Voting Time Ruled For All Employes

New York, Oct. 27 (AP) — The state attorney general says that any employe, under state election law, may get two hours of leave from his work to vote Nov. 4.

Attorney General Goldstein said yesterday he had received many inquiries on the matter.

Goldstein said a person or corporation refusing to give an employe time off for voting, or subjecting an employe to a penalty or reduction of wages for taking such time off, was guilty of a misdemeanor under the state penal law.

The law specifies that the employe must use two hours designated by his employer unless the employer makes no such specification.

Covered by the law are all employes including weekly, daily, hourly or piece-work earners; and state and municipal civil employes, but not federal employes.

Stevenson Seeks 73 Votes In Four Eastern States

En Route With Stevenson in New England, Oct. 27 (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson swung into the final and decisive week of the presidential campaign today on a whirlwind drive to capture the 73 electoral votes of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New York states.

His crowded schedule called for him to open the day's effort with a whistlestop talk in Quincy, Mass., and then ten speeches later appear for a night address in New York city's Harlem.

Both Stevenson and his GOP opponent, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, were slugging it out for the votes of the industrial east in these final days before November 4. And the tempo of their fight was expected to continue at the same torrid pace for the remainder of the contest.

Yesterday, Stevenson spent a busy day in Boston and nearby cities making what he called "non-political" speeches and appearances — and drawing big, cheering crowds wherever he went.

Interest in the campaign seemed to be building up the highest peak of all times with no signs of a levelling off in the response by voters.

The day's speaking schedule listed Quincy, Brockton, and Attleboro, Mass.; Providence and Woonsocket, R. I.; Putnam, Norwich, New London, New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn.; and Harlem.

In the electoral column, New York has 45 votes; Massachusetts

No Rain Seen for States Ravaged by Forest Fires

(By The Associated Press)

The weather forecast today held forth no hopes for rain in 15 or more states ravaged by drouth-induced forest and brush fires.

Except for snow flurries in the Great Lakes region and colder air moving south and east through the Dakotas, Indian summer continued in eastern United States.

Heavy, soaking rains were needed over hundreds of square miles to relieve tinder-dry conditions in woodlands and plains where thousands of forest rangers, national guardsmen, farmers and townsmen fought hundreds of fires—many of them out of control.

So far there has been but one fatality. Sheriff Leon J. Doster collapsed and died at Hastings, Mich., Sunday after fighting a grass fire, apparently of over-exertion.

"Very dangerous conditions" were reported throughout rural New England, where open fires and smoking were banned, some forests were closed to the public and officials were surveying whether other forests should be closed. The affected states were Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Thousands of acres were blackened and more were threatened by blazes in Virginia and West Virginia. Smoke from the fires forced temporary closing of the Charlestown, W. Va., airport Sunday, but service has been restored.

Foresters reported "very critical" conditions in Arkansas, Kentucky and Ohio. The smoke haze cut visibility to one mile at Columbus in southern Ohio Sun-

Auto Overturns

Vehicle Which Leaves Road Climbs Rocks at Embankment

Six persons were hospitalized here as the result of weekend accidents reported to state police and the sheriff's office. Four others were released after emergency room treatment.

A head-on collision of two automobiles at 12:30 a. m. Sunday on the Onteora Trail at the Glenford road intersection injured six persons, according to a sheriff's office report.

Admitted to Kingston Hospital were Marion S. Baum, 41, of 58 DeMott avenue, Baldwin, and Frederick E. King, 35, of 55 DeMott avenue. The sheriff's office report stated that Miss Baum suffered facial cuts and a chest injury, and King suffered shock and a right knee injury. The other four, who were released after treatment, were listed by the sheriff's office as Frederick Kellerhouse, 25, Elizabeth Kellerhouse, 21, Adain Stoutenburg, 22, all of West Hurley, and Mary L. DuBois, 11, of Glenford.

Stopped for Traffic

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, Deputy Sheriff Albert Eisele and Jailor Wesley O'Brien reported that the Kellerhouse automobile had stopped on Route 28 to allow traffic in the opposite direction to pass when the collision occurred with an automobile driven by Miss Baum. Front ends of both vehicles were wrecked, they reported.

While Eisele was at Kingston Hospital checking on the injured from the Route 28 accident, he reported at 2 a. m. Sunday that Irving H. Bell, 34, of West Shokan was admitted with a deep laceration over his left eye and possible internal injuries apparently suffered in a one-car accident near Krumville. Eisele said that Bell was unable to remember any details of the accident due to a condition of shock. Bell's condition was reported as "fair" by hospital authorities this morning.

Three Others Hurt

Three other persons were injured about 5 p. m. Saturday when the automobile in which they were riding plunged off the end of the recently completed section of Thruway near Sawkill, climbed a five-foot mount of rocks and dirt and overturned down an embankment, state police of the Kingston station reported.

Theodore Johnson, 76, a passenger, suffered chest and face injuries, the troopers said, and was reported in "fair" condition at Kingston Hospital this morning. Also injured were Harry Houghton, 34, listed as the driver, and his wife, Fannie, 31, both of whom were reported in "good" condition at the hospital this morning. All three were from Baldwin, according to the report. Troopers described the automobile as "demolished."

No Personal Injuries

In other area accidents investigated by state police and the sheriff's office, no personal injuries were reported.

About 1 p. m. Sunday, Vernon E. Scott, 44, of Poughkeepsie told sheriff's men his automobile and one driven by Roger D. Bradley of Queens Village sideswiped each other on Lucas avenue extension in the town of Rosendale, with damage to the left front sides of both vehicles.

Lawrence Adin of 57 East Strand, manager of Adin's Market, and Henry Foster, 49, of Mechanicsville reported in person to the sheriff's office at 1:45 p. m. Sunday that their two automobiles were involved in a rear-end collision on Route 9W near the Tropical Inn at Port Ewen.

State police of Highland reported that automobiles driven by William Simpson, 43, of Esopus and Leo Reichert, 22, of Union Center collided as Reichert's car was passing Simpson's on a road one mile west of Union Center, and the same authorities reported that an automobile driven by Kenneth W. Anderson, 31, of Poughkeepsie was damaged when it struck a rock along Route 9W one mile south of Marlborough after its left rear tire blew out about 2:30 a. m. today.

Nixon Goes to Texas

Chicago, Oct. 27 (AP)—Sen. Richard M. Nixon headed by plane for Texas today to address seven audiences in 10 hours as he stepped up the tempo of his whirlwind campaign for the vice presidency. The Republican running mate of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, a spokesman said, will answer the Democrats' claim, "You never had it so good," with a development of the theme, "There are 110,000 boys in Korea who have never had it so bad."

Miners Are Ordered Back by Union Boss

Night Sky in Korea

Tracers, mortar shells and phosphorous bombs from artillery, plus a galaxy of flares dropped from planes, tear open the black Korean skies in the Pike's Peak and Triangle Hill area. In this rugged terrain, UN troops are putting up large scale battles against screaming hordes of Chinese Reds who attack after dark and fight until dawn.

Act Comes After Talk At Capital

Work in Pits to Resume Pending Union Appeal of $1.90 a Day Pay Boost

Expects Approval

Lewis' Aides Point Out He Expects Action in Day or Two

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—John L. Lewis today ordered striking soft coal miners to go back to work at once.

The chief of the United Mine Workers messaged all union district officers that it was his opinion work should be resumed pending government reconsideration of whether the miners may have a $1.90 a day pay increase which the industry has agreed to. The Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) trimmed the rise to $1.50, holding that a higher boost would violate the government's anti-inflation program.

President Truman had appealed directly to Lewis to get the miners back to work.

HST Resumes Tour

Truman invited Lewis to the White House last night and made the request. Lewis promised cooperation. Immediately after this conference, the President left on his final political campaign tour.

The industry and the union have jointly appealed the decision of the wage board. Their appeal is to Roger Putnam, economic stabilization director, who has authority to overrule board decisions.

Associates of Lewis have made it plain that he expects the full pay raise will be approved in a day or two.

Union headquarters made public the following telegram from Lewis to district officers: (About 150)

"The joint industry request to the executive branch of the government for approval of the industry agreement is pending. It will require a reasonable time for review of attendant facts and reaching of the decision.

"It is my opinion that our industry should be operating during that period and then that the best interests of the mine workers and the public will thus be served.

Asks Early Operation

"I am therefore requesting an immediate resumption of operation at all mines in all districts and I am urging each member of our union to return to work at once.

"Please notify all local unions and all members of the message and utilize the services of all offices and field representatives in notifying the membership and requesting their fullest cooperation. Please acknowledge receipt of this telegram and state what steps are being taken in your district."

Even before the Lewis telegram was made public here, its receipt had been made known by one district union leader, John Busarello, at Pittsburgh. He heads District 5.

Busarello said he expected some miners to go back to work on the shift ordinarily reporting at 4 p. m.

Miners Are Contacted

"We're trying to get word to the miners as fast as possible," he said. "We'll do everything to comply with the orders of the boss."

The 24-minute formal meeting between Truman and Lewis, who had been political foes during the past four years, wound up with Truman taking the union leader on a personally-conducted tour of the recently refurnished White House.

This seemed to spell a new era of friendship between the two. Only four years ago Lewis opposed Truman's election, calling the President "a malignant

Hunt for Killer Is Made by Troopers

U.S. Supreme Court Has Kelly's Case

Counsel Asks Justices Rule on Rights of Convicted Man

Whether the constitutional rights of Edward H. Kelly have been violated and a new trial should be granted, rests today with the United States Supreme Court. Kelly stands convicted of the murder of Mrs. Eloise McHugh in this city on May 22, 1950.

Saturday Whitman Knapp, counsel for Kelly, appeared before Justice Jackson of the U. S. Supreme court and asked for a stay of execution in order to present to the country's highest court the proposition that Kelly was deprived of his constitutional rights and should have a new trial. Kelly stands convicted and sentenced to die in the electric chair this week unless the U. S. Supreme Court intervenes, or Governor Thomas E. Dewey grants clemency.

Following presenment of the application for a stay by Knapp, Justice Jackson reserved decision on the applicatioin until today in order that the matter may be presented to the entire court. That court will meet today for the purpose of determining the matter, it was stated.

Should the court determine Kelly's constitutional rights have not been violated, he will be put to death at Sing Sing prison some time this week. Should the United States Supreme court find Kelly's rights have been violated a new trial probably will be ordered.

Hudson Valley Concerns File Bad Check Charges

Newton, N. J., Oct. 27 (AP)—A Quakerstown, Pa., man was held in Sussex county jail awaiting grand jury action on a charge that he passed $4,000 in bad checks.

Clarence R. Daniels, 44, of Mill Hill road, Quakertown, was ordered held in 4,000 bail at his arraignment Saturday.

Daniels was arrested in Trenton Friday on a complaint by the Jaeger Auction Market of Sussex. The livestock company charged that Daniels purchased cattle from them, giving them two worthless checks totaling over $4,000.

State police said the Pine Bush Livestock Co., of Middletown, N. Y., also has a similar complaint filed against Daniels for $6,287, and another company in Newburgh, N. Y., has filed a complaint for $3,791.

Police said four plainclothesmen arrested Daniels in Clinton street station, Trenton, Friday when he made an appointment to see Fred Jaeger of the Sussex Market there.

Quakes Are Reported

Tokyo, Oct. 27 (AP)—Northern Honshu quivered through 85 light earthquakes last night that sent terrified Japanese fleeing to the mountains. No damage was reported, except to the nerves.

Police Say Slayer of Men Might Have Been Poacher

Tuxedo Park, Oct. 27 (AP)—The hunt for the killer of two sportsmen in a lonely mountain forest today centered in two places—the crime laboratories and along the forest trails.

A dozen state troopers, trained in the woodsman's art, scouted anew the wild, rugged forest area, where a banker and a town clerk were found shot down beside a dead deer.

The newly-slain deer was the basis of one police theory that the two were slain by a poacher, caught in the act of violating the law against deer hunting at this season.

The two dead men were Charles E. Simpson, 38, a banker from Saddle River, N. J., and Robert Nugent, 46, town clerk of Ramapo, who issued licenses to many hunters in the area.

Each was shot twice, in the body and the head, with a 12-gauge shotgun. Five empty shells were found in a hollow about 15 feet from their bodies.

Clues Are Sought

Police searched today for further clues — bits of clothing, tracks, or camp sites. They also were questioning local hill folk, some of whom reportedly resent game regulations and city hunters.

At Middletown an autopsy was scheduled today on the slug-torn bodies of the two men. Ballistic experts were studying the shells at the State Police Crime Laboratory at Troy.

Simpson and Nugent, a footless war veteran, had left their homes Saturday afternoon to shoot squirrel and partridge. Two teen-age squirrel hunters stumbled on their bodies yesterday.

Their jeep was parked on the overgrown trail nearby.

Investigators believed Nugent's job may have contributed to his

Three Men Killed In Newburgh Plane Wreck in Hudson

Air Force Transport Falls After Takeoff From Stewart Field; 3 Survive

Newburgh, Oct. 27 (AP) — A twin-engined air force transport plane crashed today in the Hudson river north of here and sank, reportedly carrying three men to their death.

Three others aboard escaped from the sinking craft. One of them swam to shore, and two others were picked up by boatmen.

Witnesses said the C-45 apparently was trying to make a belly-landing on the water. It hit the river, and went under about 150 yards off the west shore.

Six men were aboard the plane.

The plane took off from Stewart Field Air Force Base near here on a flight to Burlington, Vt.

Two of the survivors were taken to the base hospital, and

Voting Time Ruled For All Employes

New York, Oct. 27 (AP) — The state attorney general says that any employe, under state election law, may get two hours of leave from his work to vote Nov. 4.

Attorney General Goldstein said yesterday he had received many inquiries on the matter.

Goldstein said a person or corporation refusing to give an employe time off for voting, or subjecting an employe to a penalty or reduction of wages for taking such time off, was guilty of a misdemeanor under the state penal law.

The law specifies that the employe must use two hours designated by his employer unless the employer makes no such specification.

Covered by the law are all employes including weekly, daily, hourly or piece-work earners; and state and municipal civil employes, but not federal employes.

Stevenson Seeks 73 Votes In Four Eastern States

En Route With Stevenson in New England, Oct. 27 (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson swung into the final and decisive week of the presidential campaign today on a whirlwind drive to capture the 73 electoral votes of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New York states.

His crowded schedule called for him to open the day's effort with a whistlestop talk in Quincy, Mass., and then ten speeches later appear for a night address in New York city's Harlem.

Both Stevenson and his GOP opponent, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, were slugging it out for the votes of the industrial east in these final days before November 4. And the tempo of their fight was expected to continue at the same torrid pace for the remainder of the contest.

Yesterday, Stevenson spent a busy day in Boston and nearby cities making what he called "non-political" speeches and appearances — and drawing big, cheering crowds wherever he went.

Interest in the campaign seemed to be building up the highest peak of all times with no signs of a levelling off in the response by voters.

The day's speaking schedule listed Quincy, Brockton, and Attleboro, Mass.; Providence and Woonsocket, R. I.; Putnam, Norwich, New London, New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn.; and Harlem.

In the electoral column, New York has 45 votes; Massachusetts

Air Force Gives Pilots Decision

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP) — The air force is leaving to its pilots and overseas commanders the decision of what to do if Soviet fighters again attack American planes flying peaceable missions over non-Russian territory.

A USAF spokesman made it plain today, in answer to questions, that the crews of a plane, like the B-29 shot down by Russian fighters over Japanese waters earlier this month, have the right to fire back in self-defense.

However, the American plane downed by Soviet gunfire Oct. 7 could not have fired back because it wasn't prepared for shooting. Its guns were "tied down" during the routine training flight to the northern tip of Hokkaido.

City Is Out of Bounds

Warrington, Eng., Oct. 27 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force has put the entire city of Manchester out of bounds for American airmen because of two recent gang attacks on U. S. service personnel. Brig. Gen. Robert C. Oliver, commander of the big U. S. air depot at nearby Burtonwood, said today the ban would stay in effect until further notice. Manchester, city of 735,000 and Britain's cotton capital, has been the scene of frequent Communist party demonstrations against the stationing of American airmen in this country. There are 5,000 airmen at Burtonwood alone.

Texas Votes May

claimed by Texas since it was a republic.

Texas has not given its electoral vote to a Republican since Herbert Hoover squeezed out a narrow victory over Al Smith in 1928. The issue was Smith's religion and it had no connection with today's revolt.

Break From New Deal

Conservative Texas Democrats began breaking away from the New Deal in 1940. The revolt—still within the party—grew in 1944 and 1948. It led to development of two feuding factions: the Conservatives headed by a succession of anti-New Deal governors; the Liberals, with leaders like Rayburn and Johnson.

Conservative Democratic governors have won every race over New Deal opponents in recent years, but they stayed reluctantly in the national party. Shivers was re-nominated by the Democrats last summer before he became the first Texas governor to make a clean break and campaign for a Republican.

Shivers headed a conservative Texas delegation to the Chicago convention in July. It was seated after a contest with a rival liberal slate when Shivers promised to do all he could to see to it the Democratic presidential nominee's name would be printed on the ballot in the usual Democratic column.

The state convention in September fulfilled the pledge. Then it overwhelmingly urged Shivers and all state party leaders to back Eisenhower. They did by forming an organization known as the Texas Democrats for Eisenhower whose leadership overlaps that of the Central State Democratic Committee.

That's when the national party called on Rayburn to hurry back to Texas and rally the liberal or "loyalist" faction into a working organization to fight for Stevenson.

Dies in Flaming Wreckage

Brewster, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—A Secaucus, N. J., foundry owner died in the flaming wreckage of his automobile on U. S. Route 6 here early today. Putnam County Sheriff Frank Lyden said that Clarence Koons, 47, of Secaucus died when his car and one operated by Raymond A. Campbell of Danbury, Conn., collided head-on. Late Bulletin

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—A mistrial was declared today 10 minutes after the state opened its extortion case against Ernest Zelnick, former internal revenue agent, and H. Harold Miller, an accountant.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan upheld a defense claim that the prosecution had made "improper remarks" to the jury.

The defendants are accused of exterting $3,000 from Vincent Di Stefani, a supermarket owner, and his brother, Sam, a barber shop operator, both of Cairo.

As Assistant U. S. Attorney Louis I. Kaplan was beginning his opening statement about the defendants, he said, "there had been rumors of the passing of money in the village."

The defense objected to the remark, and the injection of rumors into the cast. Judge Ryan first offered to instruct the jury to disregard the remark, but called a mistrial upon insistence of the defense. He said choosing of a new jury would begin this afternoon.

Zelnick, 31, of Kingston, and Miller, 43, of Catskill, are free in $2,500 bail each.

scheming sort of individual" and a "dangerous" man.

Now, however, both Truman and Lewis are on the same side of the political fence, supporting the Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai Stevenson.

There was no word on how the government was going to deal with the action that brought on the strike—the denial by the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) of part of the $1.90-a-day pay raise Lewis negotiated with the soft coal industry.

Ruling Led to Walkout

The WSB ruled on Oct. 18 that the raise was inflationary by 40 cents and that only $1.50 of it could be paid, bringing miners' basic wage to $17.85 a day. The ruling led to an immediate walkout in virtually the entire industry.

It seemed perfectly clear, however, that Lewis expected the government to reverse its wage board's stand, and okay the full $1.90 pay raise. He and Harry M. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, who speaks for the northern and midwestern mine owners, have appealed for such a reversal.

Truman's statement issued after last night's conference said that Economic Stabilizer Roger Putnam had assured Lewis and Moses their appeal would receive "serious and prompt consideration."

Moses and Putnam also attended the meeting with Truman and Lewis, as did John R. Steelman, assistant to the President; Federal Mediation Service Director David L. Cole, and David B. Charnay, Lewis' public relations man.

Fall Into Creek Nets Jail Term

The third man to fall into the Rondout creek during the past two weeks will be away from the waterfront for 60 days.

Edward Bradford, 57, who, police said, has no home, fell from the dock of Ferry street Saturday night and was pulled out by Hugh Quigley, watchman at Miron Building Products Inc.

Police were notified of the mishap at 6:40 p. m., Saturday and Officers James Burns and Thomas Tomshaw, who were sent to the dock, arrested Bradford on a public intoxication charge.

The defendant pleaded guilty when he was brought before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today and the latter sentenced him to 60 days in the county jail.

Virgil Sampson, 75, of Abeel street, was pulled from the creek by W. F. Carvell of W. F. Carvell, Inc., 58 Ferry street, and Daniel Coleman, of Cedar street, on Oct. 15, and three days later men from the crew of a tug of the Callanan Road Improvement Co. pulled George Simmons, 56, of Mill street, from the creek near the same dock.

Air Force Gives Pilots Decision

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP) — The air force is leaving to its pilots and overseas commanders the decision of what to do if Soviet fighters again attack American planes flying peaceable missions over non-Russian territory.

A USAF spokesman made it plain today, in answer to questions, that the crews of a plane, like the B-29 shot down by Russian fighters over Japanese waters earlier this month, have the right to fire back in self-defense.

However, the American plane downed by Soviet gunfire Oct. 7 could not have fired back because it wasn't prepared for shooting. Its guns were "tied down" during the routine training flight to the northern tip of Hokkaido.

City Is Out of Bounds

Warrington, Eng., Oct. 27 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force has put the entire city of Manchester out of bounds for American airmen because of two recent gang attacks on U. S. service personnel. Brig. Gen. Robert C. Oliver, commander of the big U. S. air depot at nearby Burtonwood, said today the ban would stay in effect until further notice. Manchester, city of 735,000 and Britain's cotton capital, has been the scene of frequent Communist party demonstrations against the stationing of American airmen in this country. There are 5,000 airmen at Burtonwood alone.

Texas Votes May

claimed by Texas since it was a republic.

Texas has not given its electoral vote to a Republican since Herbert Hoover squeezed out a narrow victory over Al Smith in 1928. The issue was Smith's religion and it had no connection with today's revolt.

Break From New Deal

Conservative Texas Democrats began breaking away from the New Deal in 1940. The revolt—still within the party—grew in 1944 and 1948. It led to development of two feuding factions: the Conservatives headed by a succession of anti-New Deal governors; the Liberals, with leaders like Rayburn and Johnson.

Conservative Democratic governors have won every race over New Deal opponents in recent years, but they stayed reluctantly in the national party. Shivers was re-nominated by the Democrats last summer before he became the first Texas governor to make a clean break and campaign for a Republican.

Shivers headed a conservative Texas delegation to the Chicago convention in July. It was seated after a contest with a rival liberal slate when Shivers promised to do all he could to see to it the Democratic presidential nominee's name would be printed on the ballot in the usual Democratic column.

The state convention in September fulfilled the pledge. Then it overwhelmingly urged Shivers and all state party leaders to back Eisenhower. They did by forming an organization known as the Texas Democrats for Eisenhower whose leadership overlaps that of the Central State Democratic Committee.

That's when the national party called on Rayburn to hurry back to Texas and rally the liberal or "loyalist" faction into a working organization to fight for Stevenson.

Says ROKs Ready For Full Control Of War in 2 Years

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, a veteran of far east fighting, said today he believes South Koreans could assume full control of the front lines within 1½ to two years.

Eichelberger, now 66 and retired, organized and led the eighth army in its World War 2 sweep from the Philippines to Japan. Previously, he had served with the American expeditionary forces in Siberia during World War 1 and, later, in the Philippines and China.

In an interview in U. S. News and World Report, a news magazine published in Washington, he was asked whether South Koreans could take over the front lines in Korea—a question raised during the presidential campaigns of republican Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and democratic Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

"Much more quickly than we have been led to expect," Eichelberger replied and added later:

"With another five or six trained Korean divisions they could practically be in entire control of the front lines within I would say a year and a half to two years."

Feels Ike's Idea Sound

Eichelberger said Gen. Eisenhower's recommendation, in an Oct. 2 speech that South Koreans be trained to man their own front lines is militarily sound.

"The idea is not a new one," he said, "but I think the progress probably hasn't been as fast as it might have been. If Gen. Eisenhower were elected, he could speed up the transition very rapidly."

Stevenson has said South Koreans are being trained all the time.

Eichelberger said he thinks it was a mistake not to train South Korean combat troops "long ago." Since the war started in mid-1950 lack of equipment has delayed training, he said.

Eichelberger said he believes Asians should furnish the primary defense in Asia.

He said he does not feel the United Nations are strong enough now to push the Communists out of Korea. But "Time is on our side," he said, and the UN allies should avoid anything which might broaden the war.

Eichelberger has endorsed Eisenhower for the presidency.

Dewey Says Ike's Tour as President Would Help Peace

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey says that if Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower went to Korea as president he would return with an "accurate, clear" program for the war.

Dewey, speaking on TV last night, said the program would include:

1. A detailed plan — formed with Eisenhower's military knowledge—for training South Korean troops in sufficient numbers so they could absorb the major brunt of the fighting.

2. Strategy for the truce negotiators based on an "intuitive knowledge of the strategic and physical situation at the front."

3. A working together of these two plans over a period of time "to bolster the chances for peace."

Dewey was guest speaker at the New York Times Youth Forum, televised by WABD. Six high school students discussed with him the topic, "Will a Republican Victory Secure Our Future?"

One of the issues discussed was Eisenhower's statement that if elected he would go to Korea to seek a solution for ending the war.

Truman Is Accused

Dewey accused President Truman of "a piece of cheap demagoguery" in saying that if Eisenhower has a plan for peace in Korea he should make it public now. The governor said the President knows Eisenhower did not say he has a cure-all for the Korean situation.

Dewey said any one who contends he has a quick solution to the Korean problem is "a patent medicine salesman."

The governor said an Eisenhower trip to Korea would not bring an immediate end to the fighting, but would result in a detailed and positive program designed to end the war as quickly as possible.

Dewey said the withdrawal of United States troops from South Korea before the war was a "catastrophic blunder." He added that the United States missed a "clear opportunity" to train the South Korean forces from 1946 to 1950—as the Russians trained North Korean troops.

A question from one of the 500 students in the audience took Dewey back to his second unsuccessful run for the White House.

Dewey replied that he thought Eisenhower has been "more persuasive" in getting the divergent wings of the Republican party to agree to his program than Dewey was in 1948.

Attacks Leadership

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—Sen. Irving M. Ives says the Truman administration has failed to provide the leadership needed to maintain the "spirit and courage" of underground groups behind the Iron Curtain. The Republican senator, seeking reelection, adds that these movements against the Soviet Union have become the strongest single deterrent to general war. Ives addressed 3,500 persons yesterday at a mass meeting of Ukrainian-American organizations. Assailing the administration's defense program, Ives declared the nation is "wretchedly weak" in a physical sense.

Halloween Party Slated Thursday With City Parade

The Kingston Recreation Department will hold its annual Halloween party Thursday night. The evening's entertainment, consisting of a parade followed by a costume party in the municipal auditorium, will get underway from the Academy Green Park at 7:15 p. m. The paarde, as in past years, will be led by the Port Ewen Drum Corps dressed in costumes symbolic of the occasion. The drum corps will be followed by the recently renovated 40 and 8 Locomotive in its first Kingston outing since its renovation. Following the engine will be costumed marchers of all ages on their way to the auditorium. A motorcycle escort from the Kingston Police Department will be in advance of the drum corps while a patrol car will be immediately behind the marchers to keep a watchful eye out for the children. The parade will proceed down Broadway to the auditorium where the marchers from uptown will be ushered into the gym floor.

Judging Scheduled

The Drum Corps, locomotive and police escort will continue down Broadway to the corner of Delaware avenue where the marchers from downtown will be met and escorted to the auditorium. Upon completion of the parade a color guard will march the costumed contestants about the auditorium where the costumes will receive preliminary judging. The judging will be done by members of the Recreation Department staff and members of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux co-sponsors of the affair. Many prizes will be awarded to the contestants adjudged best by crowd acclaim in the following classifications: Most horrible, most humorous, most patriotic, novelty, cowbow, cowgirl or Indian, old fashioned.

DEMOCRATIC 'PROSPERITY'

Democratic spokesmen are fond of harking back to the depression and claiming credit for curing it. Yet it is a provable fact that the Democratic Party did not solve the basic element of the depression-unemployment. In 1939, just before World War II began, the United States still had eight million people without jobs.

The greatest wave of this so-called prosperity that began in 1939-40 and is still going has for the most part been an accompaniment of war or the upsurge of civilian output in its immediate aftermath.

In the most practical sense, the depression was halted not by remedial New Deal measures but by war. Since war descended upon us in late 1939, we never have been beyond its shadow.

The Democratic Party would like to have the citizens believe that it has some magic formula to assure prosperity. But the party spokesmen do not mention the public debt, which will be back up to $267.5 billion by June of 1953 and which will mean $6,770 of debt for every family of four in the land.

Neither do they mention the decline in purchasing power, the mounting income tax load and the hidden tax burden on the average family.

The staff of the Joint Committee on Revenue Taxation has produced facts to refute the Democrats' claim that "we never had it so good." Actually, today's individual and family income under $10,000 are worth only half or less of their 1939 values.

As a direct result of Democrat policies of spending, taxing, borrowing and inflating during the past 13 years, a family of four with a $2,000 net income in 1939 needs $4,200 to match it today.

Prosperity based on peace and not on war is what the Republican Party is offering.

Here is how the Republican Party proposes to start through the reduction of taxes:

By reducing government expenditures, through curtailing elaborate programming.

By reorganizing federal departments and agencies to assure efficiency and to eliminate duplication and waste, thus realizing a $5 billion saving along the lines proposed by the Hoover Commission.

By establishing a tax commission to analyze the Federal tax structure in relation to State and local taxes to create a more stable and fair tax system.

By reviewing Federal activities to determine which operations and programs can be returned to the State and local governments and to private initiative.

By utilizing fiscal and credit policies through the Federal Reserve System to check inflationary tendencies.

By adopting an economic foreign policy based not on ill-considered handouts and unlimited commitments, but on enlightened American self-interest and sound economic considerations.

LOTS OF BUSINESS—BUT!

The retail stores of this country do a whale of a lot of business—and they handle a whale of a lot of money. But a very small percentage of that money remains in the pockets of the storekeeper in the form of profit.

This fact is vividly highlighted by a report on department stores during the first six months of the year. Both sales and profits were better than the comparable period of 1951. Even so, their net profit from merchandising operations amounted to only 1.1 per cent of each sales dollar that went through their cash registers. And 43 per cent of the stores either had profits which were even lower than this or experienced losses.

Surveys covering other types of stores, including food, have produced similar facts. Prices are high, admittedly—but as a rule store profits are lower, often substantially so, than in the days when the general price level wasn't much more than half of the current figure. This goes for chain stores and independents, and small stores and large.

Here is irrefutable evidence that inflation, far from benefiting retailers as many consumers think, has hurt them—just as it has hurt all of the rest of us. And the reason for that is that retail costs—including wages, taxes, and all the rest—have gone up even farther and faster than have prices.

The retailer didn't create inflation. He doesn't like it. He's a victim of it the same as the consumer.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

CONFUSED MINDS

Clifford Odets is one of the most famous of American playwrights and has to be accepted as an intelligent, imaginative person. Therefore it is expected that when he becomes active in a public movement, he has read the literature on the subject, has reached a conclusion based upon study, judgment and soul-searching. Certainly a man of Mr. Odet's intellectual attainments had heard of Marx, Engels, Lenin, Stalin, Trotzky. Yet, this is what Clifford Odets said before the House Committee on Un-American Activities:

". . . I had no sense of the Soviet Union as a country opposed to our interests; it never occurred to me to think of the Soviet Union that way. I thought of the Soviet Union then as a country of extraordinary theatre, of extraordinary literary figures, and any greeting or relationship that I might in those days have made with that large country would be in relation to my particular field of theatre, the theatre, and theatre literature. But I must point out that in those days not only myself but no one had a sense, or very few people had a sense, of the Soviet Union as a country opposed to our interests anyway. I think it was during that time that we began to recognize the Soviet Union, began to move into a kind of amnesty with that country, in terms of trade, for instance."

The period he is referring to is 1937, four years after the United States had recognized Soviet Russia: three years after the Harold Ware Communist cell was organized among intellectuals.

Further, Odets said:

"Well, my opinion is that the Communist Party is interested in preserving itself as a minority political party. I believe, sir, that that is their right under the United States Constitution. I do not think that their essential purpose is the preservation of the Constitution. I think they want to bring about some kind of social disorder. I find some of their practices reprehensible. I am against secrecy in any political party. I would not advocate the Communist Party for anyone to join because of their secrecy. One of the elements that made me leave the Communist Party was secrecy. . . ."

The sequence of this statement is, of course, not logical. What makes the Communist Party reprehensible is not that it is a secret organization, which it is not, but that it advocates a wicked doctrine, Marxism, that can do infinite damage to our civilization. For instance, Lenin wrote:

"The dictatorship of the proletariat is the fiercest, most acute and most merciless war of the new class against the more powerful enemy, against the bourgeoisie, whose resistance is increased tenfold by its overthrow" that "the dictatorship of the proletariat is a persistent struggle—sanguinary and bloodless, violent and peaceful, military and economic, educational and administrative, against the forces and traditions of the old society."

I quote from Odets and Lenin for the purpose of showing the former's confusion.

There was no doubt in the mind of the Russian as to what he wished to do to and with our American society. He wished to destroy it. He wished to replace it by a system of his own choosing. Stalin emphasized Lenin's view in these words:

"The victory of the dictatorship of the proletariat signifies the suppression of the bourgeoisie, the break-up of the bourgeois state machinery and the displacement of bourgeois democracy by proletarian democracy. That is clear. . . ."

Now all this was written before May, 1952, when Odets testified. Stalin wrote in 1924 quoting Lenin. One would imagine that an intellectual like Odets, once a party member, would know the Communist program, would have read the fundamental literature of this revolutionary force.

There are those who doubt that the Communists seek to destroy the Government of the United States and the civilization which our people have developed on this continent. Yet, the program of the Communists is publicly blueprinted in the writings of Lenin and Stalin and in the decisions of the party in Russia, at such a congress as has recently taken place in Moscow.

The blueprints are clear and have always been available to those who want to read and study them. Those who criticize Senator Joe McCarthy or the work of the McCarran Committee fail to recognize the peril to this country in this international conspiracy to destroy it.

THE RETIREMENT OF THE WORKER

In these days when elderly men and women form the largest single group, it was fitting that an organization of elderly physicians and health specialists should be formed. It's called the American Geriatrics Society, and a journal is published called "Geriatrics," devoted to research and clinical study of the diseases and processes of the aged and aging.

It would seem to be just as fitting that this society should appoint Dr. Walter C. Alvarez as editor of "Geriatrics," a man who has distinguished himself as a scientist, teacher, author, editor and practitioner."

Dr. Alvarez is professor emeritus of Medicine of the Mayo Foundation in the Graduate School of the University of Minnesota School of Medicine and senior consultant emeritus in Medicine, Mayo Clinic.

After a lifetime devoted to the study of man in health and disease, instead of "retiring," Dr. Alvarez has taken up the editorship of this journal devoted to the physical care of elderly folk, and his first article deals with retirement, "Selective Retirement."

"Today it has become common in more and more companies and universities to retire a man as soon as he reaches the calendar age of 65. Although he may be vigorous and alert, full of interests and highly useful to his organization, still he must go. What is needed most is not a mechanism for retiring the able at 65, but one whereby the organization might weed out those who have become old and rundown and largely useless by the time they are 50."

Dr. Alvarez suggests a board of review with such a fine reputation for fairness and disinterested behavior that every employe would be willing to abide by its decisions concerning retirement. "Obviously, such a board should work closely with a group of keen physicians that will not only look at a man's laboratory and X-ray reports but also at his face, his clothes, his walk and his demeanor. These physicians would have to talk to the man's bosses, his fellow workers, and his family to determine whether he has had "little strokes and if he had failed in his abilities to work and to plan and to get along with his fellow-workers."

From the above information from such a high authoritative source, it can be seen how industry can retain men with valuable experience and lift the morale of this employe as he recognizes that he is still a valuable worker for his organization, even if he has reached the calendar age of 65.

DREW PEARSON ON The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Washington — Here is a rough idea as to how the cabinets of the two presidention candidates will stack up if elected:

The Eisenhower Cabinet

Secretary of State—Thomas E. Dewey. The governor of New York went around the world to get up to date on foreign affairs, has been conferring with Acheson on foreign policy and has his heart set on this post. Since he was the best brain in putting across the general's nomination, he will probably get his reward.

Secretary of the Treasury—Winthrop Aldrich of the Chase National Bank. Brother in-law of John D. Rockefeller and a power in GOP politics, Aldrich has been one of the key men behind Ike.

Secretary of Defense — Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge. The original Eisenhower campaign manager, Lodge faces likely defeat in his Massachusetts race for re-election He served in the army and on the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Attorney General — Gov. Earl Warren of California.

Secretary of Agriculture—Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, now one of Eisenhower's closest advisers.

Secretary of the Interior—Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado; helped lead the fight at Chicago for Eisenhower's nomination.

Secretary of Commerce—Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania, one of the earliest Eisenhower supporters.

Secretary of Labor — Ex-Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota; wrote Eisenhower's Labor Day speech.

Postmaster General — Arthur Summerfield, now chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The Stevenson Cabinet

Secretary of State — Averell Harriman, former ambassador to Great Britain and Mutual Security Administrator. Harriman's withdrawal from the race at Chicago insured Stevenson's nomination, and he could probably have the important State Department post if he wanted it. If not, William Fulbright of Arkansas, one of the Senate's best brains on foreign affairs, would have second call.

Secretary of the Treasury—Dwight Palmer, head of the General Cable Co., one of the big businessmen vigorously behind Stevenson.

Secretary of Defense — Tom Finletter, a Wall Street attorney now secretary for air.

Attorney General—Senator Kefauver of Tennessee.

Secretary of Agriculture—Some Stevenson advisers have suggested Milton Eisenhower, brother of the general, who served with Stevenson in the Agriculture Department under Henry Wallace. Milton also served under Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. A more likely possibility is Roy Turner, former governor of Oklahoma.

Secretary of the Interior—Oscar Chapman of Colorado or Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming.

Secretary of Commerce — Phil Wrigley, the chewing-gum king of Chicago, a Republican who has been a personal friend of Stevenson's.

Secretary of Labor — Wayne Morse, GOP senator from Oregon.

Postmaster General — Stephen Mitchell, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

This week I begin a new policy in discussing bidding. From now on I will describe the strength of any hand in terms of the popular 4-3-2-1 point count.

This is not a sudden decision. I have believed in point-count bidding ever since 1935, when Howark Schenken and I presented the Four Aces point count.

Our idea was good, but our timing was wrong. We were 15 years ahead of the millions of bridge players in this country, and it was necessary to wait until they got ready to accept the new idea.

It seems to me that most bridge players are now familiar with the point count, so I can return to that way of describing a hand without worrying about confusing my readers.

Just in case you're not familiar with the general idea, I'll run a few articles to teach it. Count each ace in your hand at 4 points; each king, 3; each queen, 2, and each jack, 1 point.

There are 10 points in each suit, and 40 points in the entire deck. You and your partner usually need 26 points to make a game; 33 points to make a small slam; 37 points to make a grand slam.

Open the bidding with one no-trump when you have balanced distribution stoppers in at least three suits (better, of course, in all four suits), and a count of 16 to 18 points. For example, take the South hand, shown today. South has a count of 16 points, balanced distribution, and stopper in each of the four suits.

North raises the game because he has 10 points and knows that the combined count is 26 to 28 points. That should be enough for game and isn't even close to enough for slam.

Good bidding doesn't do away with the need for good play. South must let West hold the first trick with the king of spades. If West is then foolish enough to continue the spades, South has two sure winners in the suit and has time enough to develop the diamonds.

If West shifts to a heart at the second trick (the best defense), declarer must hop right up with dummy's ace of hearts in order to begin the diamonds without delay. West can take his king of diamonds but cannot then prevent declarer from developing nine tricks.

South loses his game contract if he plays a low heart from dummy at the second trick. East takes the king of hearts and switches back to spades, thus setting up West's long suit. Now West will surely get in with the king of diamonds in time to set the contract with the rest of the spades.

Ike Grips Real Issue: U. S. Troops and Korean Conflict

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 27—General Eisenhower is at last coming to grips with the real issue of the campaign—whether and how long American troops must remain in Korea. By announcing that, if elected, he will go to Korea himself to survey the situation, the Republican nominee is initiating a program which, it may be hoped, means a report thereafter to Congress and a decision thereafter by the people of the United States through their chosen representatives as to what they want done about it.

Governor Stevenson can see in the proposed Eisenhower visit only a plan to enlarge the war. This is because he shares the Truman view that the President of the United States alone can say whether the United States shall engage in war or shall enlarge a war already entered by America.

Mr. Truman has violated the Constitution of the United States by his failure to obtain ratification by Congress of the war in Korea. He was within his constitutional rights in acting to protect American interests when the Communists suddenly crossed the 38th parallel in June 1950. Other presidents have acted instantly in an emergency without going to Congress for consent, but no president has ever engaged in such prolonged military operations without asking Congress for a formal resolution of ratification.

The argument has been made by Senator Taft and others that Congress would have ratified the action in June 1950. The very purpose of the step, however, was to establish the right of Congress to a further voice in such matters. For the question today—even if ratification had originally been given—would be whether Congress should give consent for indefinite operations especially when the United States was led to believe that its entry into Korea was an inter-allied affair backed up by the United Nations itself.

Today only 12 nations out of 50 have sent troops to Korea and the Congress of the United States has not been given an opportunity to vote on what should be done about it.

General Eisenhower has already said that he thinks the South Koreans should take over the "front lines." The Democrats, including Governor Stevenson, distorted what he said and alleged that he wanted to turn over the whole operation to the South Korean republic right away. Promptly also the Pentagon, which doesn't hesitate to play politics under the surface, let it be known that South Korea couldn't take over the job and a garbled interview with General Van Fleet in Korea followed in which he was reported to have said the South Koreans could "never" take over. He later denied that he ever said this and repeated that the South Koreans couldn't take over the whole thing now which means supply troops, air and navy. Nobody has ever suggested that step.

The truth is that the "front lines" can be manned entirely by South Koreans in a year and a half. The delays in training the South Koreans are a scandal that Congress should investigate. The task has been sadly neglected and the immediate problem is to get it going so that some day—perhaps in 18 to 24 months—the South Koreans will man the entire "front lines."

Secretary of the Army Pace has announced 10,000,000 American boys are to see military duty "in the foreseeable future." Is Congress to have nothing to say about where they will serve? Mr. Truman called our repelling of the Korean aggression a "police action." He did so because historically a President can act alone in minor affairs. But now that the "police action" has widened into the third biggest war overseas that the United States has ever fought, the people's representatives in Congress ought to have something to say about it. And the voters should be asking not only the presidential nominees but candidates for Congress whether they intend to let the people through their representatives in Congress have a voice, as the Constitution provided, in the decision as to whether America shall engage in a war and with whom.

For three hours last Friday the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, talked to the United Nations Assembly giving chapter and verse and documentary proof that the Soviet Union not only had instigated the aggression in Korea in June 1950 but has been supplying troops and munitions ever since. Yet Russia is still a member of the UN and no government, not even the American government, has chosen to make an issue of this.

If the President alone may plunge the nation into war suddenly on the assumption that our allies are back of us, Congress has the right at any time by resolution to declare the conditions under which such a war may be continued and whether, for example, the alliance known as the UN is being faithfully kept. For if the UN Charter means allies can back out or can help the aggressor or can remain neutral, the same right morally and legally belongs to the Congress of the United States. In fact, that's why it was written into the Constitution that only Congress can declare war.

The Truman-Stevenson position is that the President—a one-man government—can declare war and call it a "police action" even though more than 1,000,000 Americans have already been in Korea and vicinity in the prosecution of that "police action" which already has involved more than 120,000 casualties.

It certainly is time for a Commander-in-Chief to go to Korea and come back with a report placing all the facts before Congress for further action. This could mean plans and appropriations for the immediate training of more South Koreans, a demand that other UN members provide their proportionate share of troops and a demand that Russia be ousted from the UN as a guilty aggressor. In any event it would be refreshing to learn that General Eisenhower, if elected next week, is not only going to get the facts in Korea himself but will lay them before Congress for consideration. That's representative government.

Governor Stevenson says the key to Korea is in Moscow. He is mistaken. The key is in Washington which Moscow knows has been weak, vacillating and indecisive, not only in the conduct of the Korean war but in failing to assert leadership in the UN.

Candidates' Differences Show In Labor, Farm Vote Appeals

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—In their campaigns to win the so-called "labor" and "farm" votes, Republican Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Democrat Gov. Adlai Stevenson begin to show their real differences.

No candidate or party ever wins all the voters in either of these segments of the economy, and these votes can't be "delivered" by farm or labor leaders. But it is an important part of victory for any candidate to carry majorities in the farm belt states and the industrial regions where organized labor is strongest.

General Eisenhower has made only one major bid for the labor vote, in his speech to the AFL convention. Governor Stevenson matched that, and in addition has spoken on labor relations at Tampa, St. Louis, Detroit and Chicago.

Key to the battle for the labor vote is the stand on the Taft-Hartley act. General Eisenhower said, "I am in favor not of repealing, but of amending the law."

Governor Stevenson said at Tampa, "We stand for repeal and replacement of the Taft-Hartley act with a better, fairer law."

In amplifying his view, General Eisenhower listed these principles which should be continued in the law: The encouragement of collective bargaining. The right to strike. An advance notice before a strike is called. A requirement that both unions and employers live up to their contracts. The assurance that union members get regular reports on their organizations' finances.

Wants More Protection for Labor

On things that should be changed, General Eisenhower said, "The law might be used to break unions. That must be changed." He also advocated a requirement that employers take an oath they are not Communists, as labor leaders are now required to do.

Calling attention to the fact that Senator Taft had himself recommended 23 changes in his law, Governor Stevenson listed five main principles for a new law:

Accept unions as bargaining agents. Require democratic standards of conduction for unions. Outlaw unfair labor practices like jurisdictional disputes. Reject the labor injunction. Find new methods for handling national emergency disputes, giving the President a wider choice of procedures.

To these five, he added at Chicago: Make it difficult for labor

DEMOCRATIC 'PROSPERITY'

Democratic spokesmen are fond of harking back to the depression and claiming credit for curing it. Yet it is a provable fact that the Democratic Party did not solve the basic element of the depression-unemployment. In 1939, just before World War II began, the United States still had eight million people without jobs.

The greatest wave of this so-called prosperity that began in 1939-40 and is still going has for the most part been an accompaniment of war or the upsurge of civilian output in its immediate aftermath.

In the most practical sense, the depression was halted not by remedial New Deal measures but by war. Since war descended upon us in late 1939, we never have been beyond its shadow.

The Democratic Party would like to have the citizens believe that it has some magic formula to assure prosperity. But the party spokesmen do not mention the public debt, which will be back up to $267.5 billion by June of 1953 and which will mean $6,770 of debt for every family of four in the land.

Neither do they mention the decline in purchasing power, the mounting income tax load and the hidden tax burden on the average family.

The staff of the Joint Committee on Revenue Taxation has produced facts to refute the Democrats' claim that "we never had it so good." Actually, today's individual and family income under $10,000 are worth only half or less of their 1939 values.

As a direct result of Democrat policies of spending, taxing, borrowing and inflating during the past 13 years, a family of four with a $2,000 net income in 1939 needs $4,200 to match it today.

Prosperity based on peace and not on war is what the Republican Party is offering.

Here is how the Republican Party proposes to start through the reduction of taxes:

By reducing government expenditures, through curtailing elaborate programming.

By reorganizing federal departments and agencies to assure efficiency and to eliminate duplication and waste, thus realizing a $5 billion saving along the lines proposed by the Hoover Commission.

By establishing a tax commission to analyze the Federal tax structure in relation to State and local taxes to create a more stable and fair tax system.

By reviewing Federal activities to determine which operations and programs can be returned to the State and local governments and to private initiative.

By utilizing fiscal and credit policies through the Federal Reserve System to check inflationary tendencies.

By adopting an economic foreign policy based not on ill-considered handouts and unlimited commitments, but on enlightened American self-interest and sound economic considerations.

LOTS OF BUSINESS—BUT!

The retail stores of this country do a whale of a lot of business—and they handle a whale of a lot of money. But a very small percentage of that money remains in the pockets of the storekeeper in the form of profit.

This fact is vividly highlighted by a report on department stores during the first six months of the year. Both sales and profits were better than the comparable period of 1951. Even so, their net profit from merchandising operations amounted to only 1.1 per cent of each sales dollar that went through their cash registers. And 43 per cent of the stores either had profits which were even lower than this or experienced losses.

Surveys covering other types of stores, including food, have produced similar facts. Prices are high, admittedly—but as a rule store profits are lower, often substantially so, than in the days when the general price level wasn't much more than half of the current figure. This goes for chain stores and independents, and small stores and large.

Here is irrefutable evidence that inflation, far from benefiting retailers as many consumers think, has hurt them—just as it has hurt all of the rest of us. And the reason for that is that retail costs—including wages, taxes, and all the rest—have gone up even farther and faster than have prices.

The retailer didn't create inflation. He doesn't like it. He's a victim of it the same as the consumer.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

CONFUSED MINDS

Clifford Odets is one of the most famous of American playwrights and has to be accepted as an intelligent, imaginative person. Therefore it is expected that when he becomes active in a public movement, he has read the literature on the subject, has reached a conclusion based upon study, judgment and soul-searching. Certainly a man of Mr. Odet's intellectual attainments had heard of Marx, Engels, Lenin, Stalin, Trotzky. Yet, this is what Clifford Odets said before the House Committee on Un-American Activities:

". . . I had no sense of the Soviet Union as a country opposed to our interests; it never occurred to me to think of the Soviet Union that way. I thought of the Soviet Union then as a country of extraordinary theatre, of extraordinary literary figures, and any greeting or relationship that I might in those days have made with that large country would be in relation to my particular field of theatre, the theatre, and theatre literature. But I must point out that in those days not only myself but no one had a sense, or very few people had a sense, of the Soviet Union as a country opposed to our interests anyway. I think it was during that time that we began to recognize the Soviet Union, began to move into a kind of amnesty with that country, in terms of trade, for instance."

The period he is referring to is 1937, four years after the United States had recognized Soviet Russia; three years after the Harold Ware Communist cell was organized among intellectuals.

Further Odets said:

"Well, my opinion is that the Communist Party is interested in preserving itself as a minority political party. I believe, sir, that that is their right under the United States Constitution. I do not think that their essential purpose is the preservation of the Constitution. I think they want to bring about some kind of social disorder. I find some of their practices reprehensible. I am against secrecy in any political party. I would not advocate the Communist Party for anyone to join because of their secrecy. One of the elements that made me leave the Communist Party was secrecy. . . ."

The sequence of this statement is, of course, not logical. What makes the Communist Party reprehensible is not that it is a secret organization, which it is not, but that it advocates a wicked doctrine, Marxism, that can do infinite damage to our civilization. For instance, Lenin wrote:

"The dictatorship of the proletariat is the fiercest, most acute and most merciless war of the new class against the more powerful enemy, against the bourgeoisie, whose resistance is increased tenfold by its overthrow" that "the dictatorship of the proletariat is a persistent struggle—sanguinary and bloodless, violent and peaceful, military and economic, educational and administrative, against the forces and traditions of the old society."

I quote from Odets and Lenin for the purpose of showing the former's confusion.

There was no doubt in the mind of the Russian as to what he wished to do to and with our American society. He wished to destroy it. He wished to replace it by a system of his own choosing. Stalin emphasized Lenin's view in these words:

"The victory of the dictatorship of the proletariat signifies the suppression of the bourgeoisie, the break-up of the bourgeois state machinery and the displacement of bourgeois democracy by proletarian democracy. That is clear. . . ."

Now all this was written before May, 1952, when Odets testified. Stalin wrote in 1924 quoting Lenin. One would imagine that an intellectual like Odets, once a party member, would know the Communist program, would have read the fundamental literature of this revolutionary force.

There are those who doubt that the Communists seek to destroy the Government of the United States and the civilization which our people have developed on this continent. Yet, the program of the Communists is publicly blueprinted in the writings of Lenin and Stalin and in the decisions of the party in Russia, at such a congress as has recently taken place in Moscow.

The blueprints are clear and have always been available to those who want to read and study them. Those who criticize Senator Joe McCarthy or the work of the McCarran Committee fail to recognize the peril to this country in this international conspiracy to destroy it.

Postmaster General — Arthur Summerfield, now chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The Stevenson Cabinet

Secretary of State — Averell Harriman, former ambassador to Great Britain and Mutual Security Administrator. Harriman's withdrawal from the race at Chicago insured Stevenson's nomination, and he could probably have the important State Department post if he wanted it. If not, William Fulbright of Arkansas, one of the Senate's best brains on foreign affairs, would have second call.

Secretary of the Treasury—Dwight Palmer, head of the General Cable Co., one of the big businessmen vigorously behind Stevenson.

Secretary of Defense — Tom Finletter, a Wall Street attorney now secretary for air.

Attorney General—Senator Kefauver of Tennessee.

Secretary of Agriculture—Some Stevenson advisers have suggested Milton Eisenhower, brother of the general, who served with Stevenson in the Agriculture Department under Henry Wallace. Milton also served under Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. A more likely possibility is Roy Turner, former governor of Oklahoma.

Secretary of the Interior—Oscar Chapman of Colorado or Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming.

Secretary of Commerce — Phil Wrigley, the chewing-gum king of Chicago, a Republican who has been a personal friend of Stevenson's.

Secretary of Labor — Wayne Morse, GOP senator from Oregon.

Postmaster General — Stephen Mitchell, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

This week I begin a new policy in discussing bidding. From now on I will describe the strength of any hand in terms of the popular 4-3-2-1 point count.

This is not a sudden decision. I have believed in point-count bidding ever since 1935, when Howark Schenken and I presented the Four Aces point count.

Our idea was good, but our timing was wrong. We were 15 years ahead of the millions of bridge players in this country, and it was necessary to wait until they got ready to accept the new idea.

It seems to me that most bridge players are now familiar with the point count, so I can return to that way of describing a hand without worrying about confusing my readers.

Just in case you're not familiar with the general idea, I'll run a few articles to teach it. Count each ace in your hand at 4 points; each king, 3; each queen, 2, and each jack, 1 point.

There are 10 points in each suit, and 40 points in the entire deck. You and your partner usually need 26 points to make a game; 33 points to make a small slam; 37 points to make a grand slam.

Open the bidding with one no-trump when you have balanced distribution stoppers in at least three suite (better, of course, in all four suits), and a count of 16 to 18 points. For example, take the South hand, shown today. South has a count of 16 points, balanced distribution, and stopper in each of the four suits.

North raises the game because he has 10 points and knows that the combined count is 26 to 28 points. That should be enough for game and isn't even close to enough for slam.

Good bidding doesn't do away with the need for good play. South must let West hold the first trick with the king of spades. If West is then foolish enough to continue the spades, South has two sure winners in the suit and has time enough to develop the diamonds.

If West shifts to a heart at the second trick (the best defense), declarer must hop right up with dummy's ace of hearts in order to begin the diamonds without delay. West can take his king of diamonds but cannot then prevent declarer from developing nine tricks.

South loses his game contract if he plays a low heart from dummy at the second trick. East takes the king of hearts and switches back to spades, thus setting up West's long suit. Now West will surely get in with the king of diamonds in time to set the contract with the rest of the spades.

Ike Grips Real Issue: U. S. Troops and Korean Conflict

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 27—General Eisenhower is at last coming to grips with the real issue of the campaign—whether and how long American troops must remain in Korea. By announcing that, if elected, he will go to Korea himself to survey the situation, the Republican nominee is initiating a program which, it may be hoped, means a report thereafter to Congress and a decision thereafter by the people of the United States through their chosen representatives as to what they want done about it.

Governor Stevenson can see in the proposed Eisenhower visit only a plan to enlarge the war. This is because he shares the Truman view that the President of the United States alone can say whether the United States shall engage in war or shall enlarge a war already entered by America.

Mr. Truman has violated the Constitution of the United States by his failure to obtain ratification by Congress of the war in Korea. He was within his constitutional rights in acting to protect American interests when the Communists suddenly crossed the 38th parallel in June 1950. Other presidents have acted instantly in an emergency without going to Congress for consent, but no president has ever engaged in such prolonged military operations without asking Congress for a formal resolution of ratification.

The argument has been made by Senator Taft and others that Congress would have ratified the action in June 1950. The very purpose of the step, however, was to establish the right of Congress to a further voice in such matters. For the question today—even if ratification had originally been given—would be whether Congress should give consent for indefinite operations especially when the United States was led to believe that its entry into Korea was an inter-allied affair backed up by the United Nations itself.

Today only 12 nations out of 50 have sent troops to Korea and the Congress of the United States has not been given an opportunity to vote on what should be done about it.

General Eisenhower has already said that he thinks the South Koreans should take over the "front lines." The Democrats, including Governor Stevenson, distorted what he said and alleged that he wanted to turn over the whole operation to the South Korean republic right away. Promptly also the Pentagon, which doesn't hesitate to play politics under the surface, let it be known that South Korea couldn't take over the job and a garbled interview with General Van Fleet in Korea followed in which he was reported to have said the South Koreans could "never" take over. He later denied that he ever said this and repeated that the South Koreans couldn't take over the whole thing now which means supply troops, air and navy. Nobody has ever suggested that step.

The truth is that the "front lines" can be manned entirely by South Koreans in a year and a half. The delays in training the South Koreans are a scandal that Congress should investigate. The task has been sadly neglected and the immediate problem is to get it going so that some day—perhaps in 18 to 24 months—the South Koreans will man the entire "front lines."

Secretary of the Army Pace has announced 10,000,000 American boys are to see military duty "in the foreseeable future." Is Congress to have nothing to say about where they will serve? Mr. Truman called our repelling of the Korean aggression a "police action." He did so because historically a President can act alone in minor affairs. But now that the "police action" has widened into the third biggest war overseas that the United States has ever fought, the people's representatives in Congress ought to have something to say about it. And the voters should be asking not only the presidential nominees but candidates for Congress whether they intend to let the people through their representatives in Congress have a voice, as the Constitution provided, in the decision as to whether America shall engage in a war and with whom.

For three hours last Friday the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, talked to the United Nations Assembly giving chapter and verse and documentary proof that the Soviet Union not only had instigated the aggression in Korea in June 1950 but has been supplying troops and munitions ever since. Yet Russia is still a member of the UN and no government, not even the American government, has chosen to make an issue of this.

If the President alone may plunge the nation into war suddenly on the assumption that our allies are back of us, Congress has the right at any time by resolution to declare the conditions under which such a war may be continued and whether, for example, the alliance known as the UN is being faithfully kept. For if the UN Charter means allies can back out or can help the aggressor or can remain neutral, the same right morally and legally belongs to the Congress of the United States. In fact, that's why it was written into the Constitution that only Congress can declare war.

The Truman-Stevenson position is that the President—a one-man government—can declare war and call it a "police action" even though more than 1,000,000 Americans have already been in Korea and vicinity in the prosecution of that "police action" which already has involved more than 120,000 casualties.

It certainly is time for a Commander-in-Chief to go to Korea and come back with a report placing all the facts before Congress for further action. This could mean plans and appropriations for the immediate training of more South Koreans, a demand that other UN members provide their proportionate share of troops and a demand that Russia be ousted from the UN as a guilty aggressor. In any event it would be refreshing to learn that General Eisenhower, if elected next week, is not only going to get the facts in Korea himself but will lay them before Congress for consideration. That's representative government.

Governor Stevenson says the key to Korea is in Moscow. He is mistaken. The key is in Washington which Moscow knows has been weak, vacillating and indecisive, not only in the conduct of the Korean war but in failing to assert leadership in the UN.

Candidates' Differences Show In Labor, Farm Vote Appeals

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—In their campaigns to win the so-called "labor" and "farm" votes, Republican Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Democrat Gov. Adlai Stevenson begin to show their real differences.

No candidate or party ever wins all the voters in either of these segments of the economy, and these votes can't be "delivered" by farm or labor leaders. But it is an important part of victory for any candidate to carry majorities in the farm belt states and the industrial regions where organized labor is strongest.

General Eisenhower has made only one major bid for the labor vote, in his speech to the AFL convention. Governor Stevenson matched that, and in addition has spoken on labor relations at Tampa, St. Louis, Detroit and Chicago.

Key to the battle for the labor vote is the stand on the Taft-Hartley act. General Eisenhower said, "I am in favor not of repealing, but of amending the law."

Governor Stevenson said at Tampa, "We stand for repeal and replacement of the Taft-Hartley act with a better, fairer law."

In amplifying his view, General Eisenhower listed these principles which should be continued in the law: The encouragement of collective bargaining. The right to strike. An advance notice before a strike is called. A requirement that both unions and employers live up to their contracts. The assurance that union members get regular reports on their organizations' finances.

Wants More Protection for Labor

On things that should be changed, General Eisenhower said, "The law might be used to break unions. That must be changed." He also advocated a requirement that employers take an oath they are not Communists, as labor leaders are now required to do.

Calling attention to the fact that Senator Taft had himself recommended 23 changes in his law, Governor Stevenson listed five main principles for a new law:

Accept unions as bargaining agents. Require democratic standards of conduction for unions. Outlaw unfair labor practices like jurisdictional disputes. Reject the labor injunction. Find new methods for handling national emergency disputes, giving the President a wider choice of procedures.

To these five, he added at Chicago: Make it difficult for labor

disputants to bring their case to the government.

Governor Stevenson has gone far beyond the Taft-Hartley act in outlining a labor program. It includes: Larger appropriations for Bureau of Labor Statistics. Establishment of an "extension service" in Department of Labor to train union leaders. Give National Labor Relations Board a bigger staff to settle disputes faster. Retrain workmen displaced by machines. Improve working conditions for the million migrant farm workers.

On farm issues themselves, both Eisenhower and Stevenson have pledged continuance of the support price program at 90 per cent of parity through 1954. Far beyond that, Eisenhower said at the Kasson, Minn., plowing contest, "I believe that agriculture is entitled to a fair, full share of the national income. . . . And a fair share is not merely 90 per cent of parity . . . it is full parity." The general has not defined, however, what full parity is.

Advocates Constant Reappraisal

Governor Stevenson countered this in his Kasson speech by saying: "Support at 90 per cent of parity is not necessarily the permanent and only answer. . . . I think this program should be constantly reappraised to determine if it is fair to the taxpayers and responsive to our needs."

Eisenhower is for more support prices for the non-perishable crops. Stevenson says: ". . . there should be protection . . . for those producers of perishables who need it."

Promising to reorganize farm credit, General Eisenhower says: "Among other things, we will take steps to meet the need of today's mechanized farmer for larger operating capital." This is interpreted as meaning more aid for the big farmers.

Governor Stevenson in his Kasson, Fort Dodge, Ia., and St. Louis speeches focused "research, housing and credit programs" on "rural poverty." He said: "We must find ways to bring low-income farmers into a fuller participation in the economic life of our country."

Both candidates endorse farmer cooperatives, soil conservation, rural electrification and good roads. In general, Governor Stevenson sticks by the present Democratic farm programs. General Eisenhower's four-point farm program outlined at Kasson included:

1—Farm programs must be cleansed of politics by establishment of a bipartisan agricultural commission to review policies.
2—Transfer these programs into farmer-run operations, with maximum responsibility decentralized.
3—Adapt these programs to regional, state and local conditions.
4—Find sound methods for obtaining greater production from our diversified farms.

Says No Clues Given

Malone, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—James A. Farley says the United States bolted the door against communism at home "when we stopped communism in Korea." Farley, former postmaster general and former chairman of the Democratic national committee, made the statement to about 200 Democrats at a rally Saturday. He contended that "the Republicans have been talking with great warmth and unrestrained emotion about Korea, inflation, corruption and farm policies, but they have not given even a slight clue as to how they propose to improve on or revise the tremendous programs created by the Democratic party."

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—Challenging "the good faith" of the Pennsylvania Railroad in proposing through the Interstate Commerce Commission that Long Island Railroad commuter fares be raised, the Public Service Commission announced yesterday it has taken the first official step to block the move by petitioning for dismissal of the proposal. There is "no reasonable basis" for the Pennsylvania's "complaint" against current fares on the bankrupt Long Island, the PSC maintained. It charged the Pennsylvania with attempting to delay pending plans for the Long Island's reorganization.

Most men who run down women are running down one woman only—Remy de Gourment.

After man came woman—and she has been after him ever since.

At a political picnic, a newspaper reporter had listened for too long, as a proud father recounted the exploits of his 10-year-old son.

"The boy knows everything," the politician said. "And geography! He's terrific at geography! Why he can name every hemisphere!"

It was to be the lady's first airplane ride and she was a trifle nervous over it.

Lady—You'll be sure to bring us back safely, won't you?

Pilot—Don't worry miss. Of course I will. I've never left any one up there yet.

In the melee Fine was struck over the head with some blunt object and knocked unconscious. Disengaging himself from the two men he drew his gun and fired three times. — Cleburne (Tex.) Times-Review.

"Some of my pupils just make me speechless at times," said the Sunday school teacher to the pastor. "There's Willie Jones for example. After he had studied the baptismal rites, I asked him what must precede baptism. He said "a baby" and when I got to thinking of it he was right, too. But the Sunday school books didn't mention that as the proper answer."

Farm Agent Lists Safety Tips for Machine Operation

With more mechanical corn pickers in operation on area farms than ever before, Robert D. Guzewich, associate county agricultural agent, today listed six suggestions for the safe operation of the machines, which in recent years have been the cause of many serious farm accidents.

1. Never reach into a picker when it is running. Shut off the power before oiling, adjusting, unclogging, and whenever leaving the tractor seat.

2. Keep all safety shields in place, including the tractor engine shields (on mounted pickers) for fire prevention.

3. Dress for the job by wearing close-fitting clothing that is warm and comfortable. "Extra thumb" gloves are especially dangerous. Don't try to mix hunting with corn picking.

4. Watch out for falls. Prohibit extra riders and see that you have firm footing when climbing on or off equipment. Never dismount from a moving tractor. Keep tractor platforms free of tripping hazards.

5. Be on guard for fires. Never refuel tractor when motor is hot or running. Keep fuel lines free from leaks. Replace glass sediment bowl with a non-breakable one. Avoid trash accumulations on hot manifolds or exhaust pipes.

6. Keep a first aid kit and a fire extinguisher in good operating condition where they will be available if needed.

Guzewich also revealed that for growers wishing advice on suitable storage a new bulletin on construction of corn cribs is now available at the County Agent's office, 74 John street, Kingston.

Attacks Slow Up

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, Oct. 27 (AP)—Gen. Sir Rob Lockhart said today that Communist guerilla attacks in Malaya have shown a "marked decline" in the last few months. But Lockhart, deputy director of anti-Communist operations in the British-protected peninsula, cautioned no end is in sight for the shooting war which has gripped the rich tin and rubber country for the last four years.

Wins Clean Sweep

Warsaw, Poland, Oct. 27 (AP)—Poland's National (Communist) Front won a clean sweep in the nation's parliamentary elections yesterday. No opposition candidates ran. It was the first SEJM elected under the new, three-month-old constitution of the Polish People's Republic.

Former Elks' Head Dies

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—Dr. J. Edward Gallico, a past president of the State Elks Association, is dead at 70. Dr. Gallico, who practiced dentistry in Troy, until his retirement three years ago, died Saturday in a Poughkeepsie hospital. He headed the state Elks organization in 1930.

Trial Set Today In Treason Case

New York, Oct. 27 (AP) — The treason trial of John David Provoo, a former army staff sergeant in the Pacific, is scheduled to start today in federal court.

Provoo, now 36, was indicted almost three years ago on 12 charges of treason, including one allegation that he caused the Japanese to execute a U. S. Army captain in a war prisoner camp.

U. S. Attorney Myles J. Lane has announced that because conviction on the charges would carry a possible death penalty, a trial jury will be selected from a special panel of 175 persons.

Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan will preside.

Provoo, a native of Sausalito, Calif., is charged with causing the death of army Capt. Burton C. Thompson, of Swea City, Iowa, by reporting the officer as "anti-Japanese and uncooperative."

Other counts in the indictment allege Provoo gave the Japanese information about other American war prisoners, causing them to be brutally treated by the Japanese; that he made propaganda broadcasts for the Japanese, and that he tried to induce American officers to divulge military secrets to the Japanese.

Hurricane Is Losing Force; Still Threat

Miami, Fla., Oct. 27 (AP)—A Caribbean hurricane that ripped across Cuba with 165-mile-an-hour winds and threw a scare at the southeast Florida coast appeared to be losing force as it swung eastward in the Atlantic today.

It still was considered a potentially dangerous storm with maximum winds about hurricane force (75 miles per hour) and the Miami Weather Bureau said shipping in its path should exercise caution.

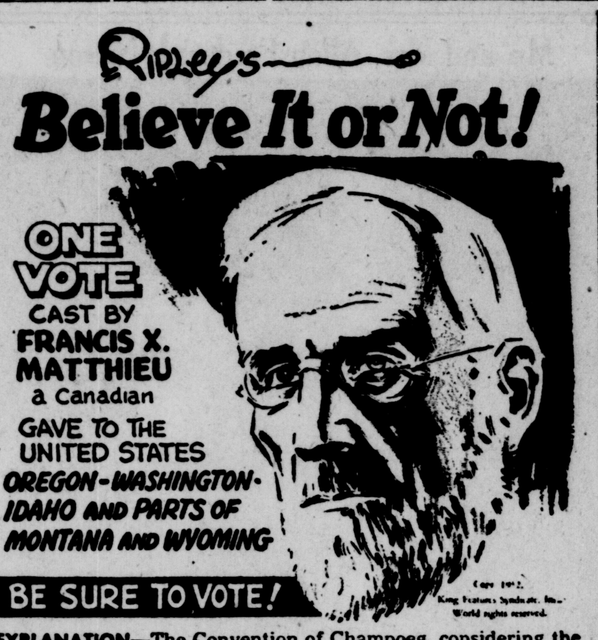

At 5 a. m. today the hurricane was about 275 miles east southeast of Nassau, in the Bahamas, moving east or northeast at about seven miles an hour.

Gale winds extended outward about 60 miles from the center in squalls.

The hurricane blew up in the western Caribbean Sea near Swan Island last Wednesday and crossed central Cuba late Friday, causing considerable crop and property damage.

Shot Injures Seven

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—A partridge hunter's shotgun went off accidentally in the Bronx yesterday, slightly injuring seven passersby. The charge struck the sidewalk and sprayed small shot about. Claudio Graxirena, 27-year-old fish handler, who was returning from a hunt near Peekskill, N. Y., was booked on charges of felonious assault.

Oregon, Washington, Idaho and parts of Montana and Wyoming were carved from this land.

Jacoby on Canasta

Rule Will End Any Argument

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"In a recent game of Samba," writes a Cincinnati correspondent, "we got ourselves into quite a hassle. Perhaps you can straighten us out.

"My wife and I had a canasta of kings. We had also melded a sequence from the seven of spades all the way up to the queen. As you can see, we needed either the six of spades or the king of spades to complete this Samba.

"The opponent at my right discarded the king of spades, and I swooped down upon the discard pile. The opponents thereupon squawked so hard that the Red Cross sent out some emergency relief on the theory that we were having an earthquake.

"I won't bore you with all the lovely statements made on both sides. The opponents were members of the family, and we managed to make a few remarks that had very little to do with Samba! All the same, we would like to know the rights and wrongs of this situation.

"Did I have the right to pick up that king of spades and add it to my sequence?"

Yes, you certainly had that right. In the game of Samba, you are not allowed to pick up a card that matches your closed canasta for the purpose of adding it to that canasta. There is nothing in the rules to prevent you, however, from picking such a card and using it for an entirely different meld.

In this case, the king of spades was not going to be used with the canasta of kings. It could therefore be used to add to the long sequence in spades.

It would be equally correct to pick up such a card with a matching pair in your hand. For example, if my correspondent had an additional pair of kings in his hand he could take the discarded king of spades and start an entirely new meld of kings.

Q—How is a hand of Canasta scored when the stock pile is exhausted and not one of the four players has made any meld? Each side has put down two red threes.

A—The hand comes to an end, of course, and each side is docked 200 points for its red threes. In addition, each side is docked for the full count of the cards held by both partners.

For example, suppose your cards added to 110 points and that your partner's cards came to 140 points. You would be minus 250 points (the sum of 110 and 140) for cards and minus 200 for your red threes. Hence 450 points (250 plus 200) would be subtracted from your previous score on the scorepad.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked question in his column.

16 votes; Connecticut 8 votes and Rhode Island 4 votes—making a total of 73 or more than 25 per cent of the 266 votes needed for election.

He told a group of veterans in Boston yesterday that he hoped they would help find ways of cutting federal spending.

"We are in a time now," he said, "from the point of view of the federal budget, of extreme exertion—extreme pressure. I am not sure how long it is going to last. Presumably through fiscal 1955.

"In that interval, we have got to restrain ourselves. . . . I would hope that the veterans might be one of the leaders in ways and means of reducing federal expenditures, or, at least, in sharply controlling them at a time like this when the disaster of inflation or over-expenditure strikes evenly. Nobody escapes.

He said the veterans themselves could do much about "restraining" public officials who are anxious about the vote of the veteran. Just stand fast, he said, "and be strong and stiff-backed about these things and don't permit us to be raiding the public treasury to serve our own ends all the time. I don't think the government is a grabbag, either at the state level or at the federal level, and I don't think any of you fellows do so."

The Illinois governor attended church services at the First Unitarian Church in Cambridge where several hundred persons were waiting to greet him. And there was another good-sized crowd waiting when he went to a Cambridge Hotel to lunch with Gov. Paul A. Dever of Massachusetts.

In crisp, clear fall weather, Stevenson drove to Taunton, Mass., where police estimated 5,000 people were gathered for the dedication services opening a new state hospital and school for mentally handicapped children.

The governor was accompanied by his three sons, Adlai, 3rd, Borden and John Fell.

In his talk, Stevenson dwelt on the growth of local responsibility in government and he said: "I hope the states will continue to discharge their responsibilities, else the people wanting services, will look to Washington. I believe most profoundly that the preservation of our federal system is going to depend more and more on the states."

From Taunton, Stevenson drove to Fall River to an armory where a tea was given in honor of Miss Marie Dever (sister of Governor Dever), and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, wife of the former ambassador to Great Britain.

Police estimated that 6,000 people were jammed into the armory with other thousands outside. There were some displays of "I Like Ike" signs but not many. Stevenson told the crowd he appreciated the reception and "even the little boys who shouted, "I like Ike."

Then the procession moved on to New Bedford where the largest crowd of the day had gathered at the hotel for a reception and then a speech in the Common.

Decorative Stitchery

Every woman has creative ability was the conclusion reached by Ulster County Home Bureau leaders who completed training in the first section of the advanced decorative stitchery project under Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent.

Leaders created several designs and chose at least two to be applied to articles of wearing apparel or furnishings using decorative stitches.

Those who attended the training sessions were the Mmes. Earl Sahler, Ferris Turner, Accord; Benjamin Stokes, Francis Don, Bloomingdale; Arnold VanLaer, High Falls; Robert Larson, Donald Brunet, Olive; Bernard Wenig, Louis Zipperman, Ellenville; George Christensen, Yeagerville.

Classes will be held in the respective units during the winter months. Interested homemakers are urged to enroll in the near future for these classes.

16 votes; Connecticut 8 votes and Rhode Island 4 votes—making a total of 73 or more than 25 per cent of the 266 votes needed for election.

He told a group of veterans in Boston yesterday that he hoped they would help find ways of cutting federal spending.

"We are in a time now," he said, "from the point of view of the federal budget, of extreme exertion—extreme pressure. I am not sure how long it is going to last. Presumably through fiscal 1955.

"In that interval, we have got to restrain ourselves. . . . I would hope that the veterans might be one of the leaders in ways and means of reducing federal expenditures, or, at least, in sharply controlling them at a time like this when the disaster of inflation or over-expenditure strikes evenly. Nobody escapes.

He said the veterans themselves could do much about "restraining" public officials who are anxious about the vote of the veteran. Just stand fast, he said, "and be strong and stiff-backed about these things and don't permit us to be raiding the public treasury to serve our own ends all the time. I don't think the government is a grabbag, either at the state level or at the federal level, and I don't think any of you fellows do so."

The Illinois governor attended church services at the First Unitarian Church in Cambridge where several hundred persons were waiting to greet him. And there was another good-sized crowd waiting when he went to a Cambridge Hotel to lunch with Gov. Paul A. Dever of Massachusetts.

In crisp, clear fall weather, Stevenson drove to Taunton, Mass., where police estimated 5,000 people were gathered for the dedication services opening a new state hospital and school for mentally handicapped children.

The governor was accompanied by his three sons, Adlai, 3rd, Borden and John Fell.

In his talk, Stevenson dwelt on the growth of local responsibility in government and he said: "I hope the states will continue to discharge their responsibilities, else the people wanting services, will look to Washington. I believe most profoundly that the preservation of our federal system is going to depend more and more on the states."

From Taunton, Stevenson drove to Fall River to an armory where a tea was given in honor of Miss Marie Dever (sister of Governor Dever), and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, wife of the former ambassador to Great Britain.

Police estimated that 6,000 people were jammed into the armory with other thousands outside. There were some displays of "I Like Ike" signs but not many. Stevenson told the crowd he appreciated the reception and "even the little boys who shouted, "I like Ike."

Then the procession moved on to New Bedford where the largest crowd of the day had gathered at the hotel for a reception and then a speech in the Common.

Larry Weishaupt Blasts 765 in HVBL With 234, 255 and 276

Larry Weishaupt, the Miron Lumber leadoff in the Hudson Valley Bowling League, flirted with the local all-time individual bowling record Saturday night with a tremendous 765 blast against the Kelly Motors of Newburgh at the Bowlodrome.

Weishaupt rolled progressively better scores with 234, 255 and 276 to come within six pins of equalling the all-time record of 771 set early this year by Joe Schrowang.

Weishaupt's brilliant pinning enabled the Lumberjacks to sweep the set from the powerful Kellys with a 3041 team aggregate on games of 986, 1022 and 1033.

Rolling the highest individual series of his career, Weishaupt was red hot from the opening ball. He started the night with seven strikes in a row in the first game before a split stopped him. .....

Has Nine in Row

In the third game, Weishaupt fired nine straight strikes before he ran into a baby split. He picked it up for the spare and filled with eight pins on the last ball.

It was the first really spectacular night of the season for the young man who has an ABC—accredited "300" score to his credit. None of the Lumberjacks could find the range with Weishaupt's consistency and he was the only kegler over the "600" mark. Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer came closest with 213-214-596. Johnny Ferraro shot 211-592 in the anchor slot.

Weishaupt's 765 was 23 pins shy of the all-time Hudson Valley record of 788 set by George Scofield of the pre-war Walden powerhouse. Scofield's series included a 298 single.

Elstons Win Two

Elston Sport Shop maintained its good road record by taking a 2-1 decision from the Toros at Liberty. The Elstons copped the middle set by four pins and won the third game by a substantial margin.

Larry Peterson's 205-569 and Dick Howard's 543 were high for the Sportsmen. Ed Eichenauer rolled 202-200-576 and Jack Coughlin, the golf pro, 574 for the home forces.

Rapp's Express took the first game from the Academy Bowling Center at Poughkeepsie but dropped the next two. Frank Grimaldi posted 224-554 and Bill Lawrence had 202-551 for Kingston. Les Simpson reeled off 222-572 for the Academy.

Gerken Loses Ground

Veteran Wally Gerken, the Newburgh Kelly leadoff who carried a 205 average into Saturday's match with Miron's, lost considerable ground with a 563 series. Hobbled by splits he opened with 155 but rallied with 194 and 214.

High School Trounces Oneonta High, 48-7, for Fifth Straight

Maroon Explodes With Long Gainers

Kingston High exploded with a series of long gainers to massacre the gallant but outmanned Yellow Jackets of Oneonta High, 48 to 7, Saturday afternoon in the sun drenched but chilly hills of Otsego county.

In racking up their fifth straight success and their highest point total since the 1948 powerhouse, Coach Bill Burke's Maroons shook Orville Giles loose for spectacular bursts of 68 and 55 yards and blew the game apart with a 24-point surge in the second period.

It was another brutal afternoon for the Oneonta gridders who had previously been subjected to a 53-7 thrashing by Johnston and had yielded 40-point totals to Norwich and Vestal.

Kingston marched 59 yards on eight plays from the opening kickoff and maintained steady pressure on the host gridders throughout the game.

Giles scored from the six for his third touchdown. Gene Masa returned a punt 50 yards and bolted over from the seven for a pair of touchdowns. The others went to Capt. Pat Manfro, John Armstrong and quarterback Roger Billings.

Uses 27 Players

Coach Burke threw 27 players against the Yellow Jackets but the losers were able to move only against a mixture of second and third stringers in the second half.

Against the seconds, Oneonta marched 45 yards for its lone score. A couple of hard running backs Dick Grace and Jim Powell romped to the Kingston 17 where Burke rushed the varsity back into action. Undaunted, Powell bolted through the middle from the 17-yard line to check the Kingston avalanch momentarily at the 30-7 mark.

Oneonta was pounding on Kingston's 4-yard line when the game ended, having ground out a steady drive from its own 20. Jim Anderson, the fullback, did the heavy duty on this trek.

Giles Goes 27

Giles inserted a spectacular 27-yard run in Kingston's first touchdown sequence from the 33 to the 6. On first down he hit between left tackle and left guard for the first score. Massa missed the first of seven consecutive tries for a placement kick to make it 6-0.

Massa took an Oneonta punt at midfield early in the second period cut to his right and catwalked the sidelines until he reached the 10 then veered slightly toward midfield and went over unmolested. Again he missed the try and it was 12-0.

Bob Kozlowski made the first of two Kingston fumble recoveries a moment later as the Maroons were pushing Oneonta around at will. The recovery came on the 23. Massa swept left end to the 7 and Pat Manfro bolted over right guard for the third touchdown and the second in the period.

Unable to move against the hard charging Kingston line, Oneonta punted and Kingston was detected clipping for a 15-yard penalty that set them back to the 32. Giles picked this spot for one of the finest runs of the season. Behind devastating blocking that must have made Coach Burke smile with satisfaction, the flashy halfback crashed through the left side of his line into the clear. Not an Oneonta hand touched him as he raced straight down the middle for 68 yards.

Scheffer Gets Fumble

Big Leroy Scheffer pounced on a fumble on Oneonta's 40 from the next kickoff and Billings went to the forward pass for the first time to score in three plays. First he hit Giles near the 20. Giles apparently had his third TD with a left end sweep but Kingston was set back to the 35 on a holding penalty. Undaunted, the Maroons completed a pitchout and pass play to Giles on the six and Massa crashed over on first down to end the half at 30-0.

After Oneonta ground out 45 yards in its only touchdown surge, Manfro returned from Kingston's 22 to the 45 on the kickoff. Massa and Giles picked up two yards each in slams at the tackle before Giles was off to the races again with a 55-yard sweep around left end.

The second and third stringers created some extra excitement late in the third period when Ronnie Crispino intercepted a pass on the Oneonta 40 and got down to the 2. Billings rammed over on the quarterback sneak.

Oneonta appeared to be in total collapse at this point. A bad pass from center and poorly advised pitchout caused them to surrender the ball on their own 2. Ed Van Loan picked up a half yard at center before Armstrong wound up the day's scoring at 48-7. The Yellow Jackets rallied for one more desperate surge from the 20 and if the clock hadn't run out on them a second touchdown seemed inevitable.

The contest was unusual in many respects. First of course was Massa missing seven straight chances for an extra point. Kingston's actual yardage from scrimmage was less than 150 with only seven first downs but long gainers did the job.

Coach Bill Burke pointed out that Kingston handled the ball fewer times than in any game in recent years. In the fourth quarter they had possession only once, scoring on two plays.

Now comes a rest until Nov. 8 when Port Jervis comes into municipal stadium.

Upsets Haunt Title-Bound College Gridiron Leaders

New York, Oct. 27 (AP) — This is the time of year the titans of college football usually begin looking forward to the gold of bowl games or the glory of conference titles.

Not this time.

The muscle-men, noting the trend of things, are quaking as they come to each game. The upsets haven't been startling but each week some of the big boys are biting the dust.

If Iowa, the punching bag of the Big 10, can whip Ohio State, and Southern California can shut out California—a feat that hadn't been accomplished in 60 games—nothing should be a surprise.

Perhaps the only certainty, and that's going out on a limb, is that Michigan State and Maryland are the class of the country insofar as the records are concerned. Neither has stumbled, and each has shown a wealth of power and an ability to stop the enemy when it counts.

Right behind are once-tied Oklahoma and two all-winning southern powers, Georgia Tech and Duke. The unbeated list should be reduced by one come Saturday when the Tech and Duke collide head-on at Durham, N. C.

Until this week, California was high up on the list. Then Southern California whipped the Golden Bears, 10-0, by way of showing for the umpteenth time this season that a good defense can cage a fast bunch of backs.

Now the Pacific coast race is up in the air. Cal still could win it, but Southern Cal and U.C.L.A., which like the Trojans, is undefeated, both will have plenty to say. U.C.L.A. meets the Golden Bears this Saturday and if they can answer the question, they might win it.

Georgia Tech and Duke will play the headline game of the south, and the Engineers will rule slight favorites. Both warmed up to their tasks Saturday, Tech clouting Vanderbilt, 30-0, and the Blue Devils conquering previously undefeated Virginia, 21-7. Feared Maryland, which whipped Louisiana State, 34-6, will test its might once against Boston University.

Big 10 Unsettled

The Big Ten race also is unsettled. Illinois and Wisconsin both were supposed to fight it out for the title with the Badgers probably going to the Rose Bowl in any event because the Illi were there last year. Today, the Illini are in the cellar.

Purdue, overlooked in the preseason ratings, and Michigan are leading the loop. And Purdue's 40-12 triumph over Illinois Saturday would indicate the Boilermakers are getting more confident as the season progresses.

Michigan State put in a strong bid to retain its No. 1 national rating by walloping Penn State, 34-7.

Nor is anything settled in the Southwest Conference. However, Texas is looking more and more like the class of the league with each passing week. The Longhorns slugged Arkansas right out of the running Saturday, 20-7, and now take on Southern Methodist. Both are undefeated in league play.

Championship-bound (Big 7) Oklahoma figures to run through a workout at the expense of Iowa State, and Kansas, the runner-up, should have no trouble with Kansas State. Missouri and Bobby Reynolds-less Nebraska play the top game from a competitive standpoint.

Poughkeepsie High ran into unexpected forward pass trouble at Middletown, but Sam Kalloch's resurgent powerhouse scuttled the Middies, 27 to 18, for their second DUSO victory in three starts.

Meanwhile, Newburgh Free Academy made its league debut after three non-conference victories by thumping Port Jervis, 21 to 0, at the tri-state city.

Poughkeepsie held Middletown to net gain of one yard rushing but the home gridders picked up 161 yards and their three TDs in the air. The passing of Dick Mills and the receiving of Mike Murphy, end, was outstanding for the losers.

Johnson Stars

Bobby Johnson, Poughkeepsie sensational freshman halfback, galloped 35 yards for the first Blues TD. He recovered a fumble on the Middletown 34 and a few plays later Dom Pacio bulled over from the 1. Preacher Dickens, a reserve back, accounted for the third score and the fourth came on a pass from Leo Elwell to Johnson after Pacio intercepted on the 10.

Against a comparable opponent, NFA showed greater defensive power than Poughkeepsie. The Blues scored 33 points against Port Jervis but yielded two scores. They hiked Kingston's score over Middletown but gave up three touchdowns to the Middies to Kingston's none.

It's going to be a great day come Nov. 8.

Despirito Sets Sights on Record

Lincoln, R. I., Oct. 27 (AP)—Anthony Despirito—America's young riding sensation—moves to Lincoln Downs today with his rights on the all-time single year mark of 388 winners.

The little, 17-year-old apprentice jockey—already the magic 300 figure with 303 winners—hopes to get within hailing distance of the 45-year-old record during Lincoln Downs' 30-day fall meeting.

The record was set back in 1907 by the famed Walter Miller and equalled in 1930 by Willie Shoemaker and Joe Culmone. Last week the darkhaired Lawrence, Mass., rider entered the select group of eight jockeys to have booted home 300 winners in one year.

Despirito is expected to head south to Florida's Tropical Park for the final stages of his assault on the 388-figure. If he has a really hot streak at Lincoln Downs, he could be within striking distance of the record when he leaves here Nov. 29 for the southland.

The youngster brought home three mounts in front last Saturday in the closing program at Rockingham Park. One of those was a nifty performance aboard Larry Ellis in the $10,000 feature race. Despirito brought the 4-year-old gelding up from last place to cop the seven furlong test.

Thirty - eight thoroughbreds carrying a total value of $144,500 changed hands via the claiming route during Delaware Park's 1952 meeting.

Cleveland Browns Top American After Giant, Cardinal Upsets

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The National Football League—where the boys play for "dear old gold and silver"—headed toward the halfway point today with the American Conference engaged in its annual pastime—chasing the Cleveland Browns.

With Lou Groza kicking four field goals, the Brownies rallied to defeat the Washington Redskins, 19-15, yesterday to take a one-game lead in the American Conference.

While the Browns were moving in front, the unbeated San Francisco 49ers (5-0) held their two-game bulge in the National Conference by blasting the winless Dallas Texans, 48-21, as Hugh McElhenny, Joe Perry and Frankie Albert sparkled.

These two games ran according to form, but two others didn't—and that's why the Browns are on top once again.

Eagles Upset Giants

The New York Giants and Chicago Cardinals, both tied with Cleveland before the day's action, were upset by teams which were decided underdogs.

The Philadelphia Eagles, 15½-point underdogs, stunned the Giants, 14-10, with crunching line play and a brilliant 52-yard punt return by Ed Bawel.

And Pittsburgh, winless in four games and 12-point underdogs, surprised the Cards, 34-28, as Jim Finks passed for three touchdowns.

In other games, Detroit's latent offense exploded for a 52-17 romp over Green Bay, and Los Angeles punched out four touchdowns in the final period to whip the Chicago Bears, 31-7.

For three periods at Cleveland it looked as though Washington, leading 13-9, was headed for an upset. But, in the final session, Groza kicked his fourth field goal—a 35-yarder—and Otto Graham tossed a 56-yard pass, then slipped across from the two to give Cleveland its fourth win in five starts.

Chuck Drazenovich scored both Washington touchdowns on short bursts in the second period, but it was little Eddie Le Baron who set them up with a snappy display of running, passing and ball handling.

At San Francisco, the 49ers scored in every period to hand the Texans their fifth straight setback.

Playing as if their very lives depended upon the outcome, the Eagles pushed the Giants all over the Polo Grounds in the day's biggest surprise. Philadelphia scored its two touchdowns in the second period—on Bowel's nifty run and a Bobby Thomason's 19-yard pass to Bob Walston—then stopped the Giants attack cold in the second half.

Larry Weishaupt Blasts 765 in HVBL With 234, 255 and 276

Larry Weishaupt, the Miron Lumber leadoff in the Hudson Valley Bowling League, flirted with the local all-time individual bowling record Saturday night with a tremendous 765 blast against the Kelly Motors of Newburgh at the Bowlodrome.

Weishaupt rolled progressively better scores with 234, 255 and 276 to come within six pins of equalling the all-time record of 771 set early this year by Joe Schrowang.

Weishaupt's brilliant pinning enabled the Lumberjacks to sweep the set from the powerful Kellys with a 3041 team aggregate on games of 986, 1022 and 1033.

Rolling the highest individual series of his career, Weishaupt was red hot from the opening ball. He started the night with seven strikes in a row in the first game before a split stopped him. .....

Has Nine in Row

In the third game, Weishaupt fired nine straight strikes before he ran into a baby split. He picked it up for the spare and filled with eight pins on the last ball.

It was the first really spectacular night of the season for the young man who has an ABC—accredited "300" score to his credit. None of the Lumberjacks could find the range with Weishaupt's consistency and he was the only kegler over the "600" mark. Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer came closest with 213-214-596. Johnny Ferraro shot 211-592 in the anchor slot.

Weishaupt's 765 was 23 pins shy of the all-time Hudson Valley record of 788 set by George Scofield of the pre-war Walden powerhouse. Scofield's series included a 298 single.

Elstons Win Two

Elston Sport Shop maintained its good road record by taking a 2-1 decision from the Toros at Liberty. The Elstons copped the middle set by four pins and won the third game by a substantial margin.

Larry Peterson's 205-569 and Dick Howard's 543 were high for the Sportsmen. Ed Eichenauer rolled 202-200-576 and Jack Coughlin, the golf pro, 574 for the home forces.

Rapp's Express took the first game from the Academy Bowling Center at Poughkeepsie but dropped the next two. Frank Grimaldi posted 224-554 and Bill Lawrence had 202-551 for Kingston. Les Simpson reeled off 222-572 for the Academy.

Gerken Loses Ground

Veteran Wally Gerken, the Newburgh Kelly leadoff who carried a 205 average into Saturday's match with Miron's, lost considerable ground with a 563 series. Hobbled by splits he opened with 155 but rallied with 194 and 214.

High School Trounces Oneonta High, 48-7, for Fifth Straight

Maroon Explodes With Long Gainers

Kingston High exploded with a series of long gainers to massacre the gallant but outmanned Yellow Jackets of Oneonta High, 48 to 7, Saturday afternoon in the sun drenched but chilly hills of Otsego county.

In racking up their fifth straight success and their highest point total since the 1948 powerhouse, Coach Bill Burke's Maroons shook Orville Giles loose for spectacular bursts of 68 and 55 yards and blew the game apart with a 24-point surge in the second period.

It was another brutal afternoon for the Oneonta gridders who had previously been subjected to a 53-7 thrashing by Johnston and had yielded 40-point totals to Norwich and Vestal.

Kingston marched 59 yards on eight plays from the opening kickoff and maintained steady pressure on the host gridders throughout the game.

Giles scored from the six for his third touchdown. Gene Masa returned a punt 50 yards and bolted over from the seven for a pair of touchdowns. The others went to Capt. Pat Manfro, John Armstrong and quarterback Roger Billings.

Uses 27 Players

Coach Burke threw 27 players against the Yellow Jackets but the losers were able to move only against a mixture of second and third stringers in the second half.

Against the seconds, Oneonta marched 45 yards for its lone score. A couple of hard running backs Dick Grace and Jim Powell romped to the Kingston 17 where Burke rushed the varsity back into action. Undaunted, Powell bolted through the middle from the 17-yard line to check the Kingston avalanch momentarily at the 30-7 mark.

Oneonta was pounding on Kingston's 4-yard line when the game ended, having ground out a steady drive from its own 20. Jim Anderson, the fullback, did the heavy duty on this trek.

Giles Goes 27

Giles inserted a spectacular 27-yard run in Kingston's first touchdown sequence from the 33 to the 6. On first down he hit between left tackle and left guard for the first score. Massa missed the first of seven consecutive tries for a placement kick to make it 6-0.

Massa took an Oneonta punt at midfield early in the second period cut to his right and catwalked the sidelines until he reached the 10 then veered slightly toward midfield and went over unmolested. Again he missed the try and it was 12-0.

Bob Kozlowski made the first of two Kingston fumble recoveries a moment later as the Maroons were pushing Oneonta around at will. The recovery came on the 23. Massa swept left end to the 7 and Pat Manfro bolted over right guard for the third touchdown and the second in the period.

Unable to move against the hard charging Kingston line, Oneonta punted and Kingston was detected clipping for a 15-yard penalty that set them back to the 32. Giles picked this spot for one of the finest runs of the season. Behind devastating blocking that must have made Coach Burke smile with satisfaction, the flashy halfback crashed through the left side of his line into the clear. Not an Oneonta hand touched him as he raced straight down the middle for 68 yards.

Scheffer Gets Fumble

Big Leroy Scheffer pounced on a fumble on Oneonta's 40 from the next kickoff and Billings went to the forward pass for the first time to score in three plays. First he hit Giles near the 20. Giles apparently had his third TD with a left end sweep but Kingston was set back to the 35 on a holding penalty. Undaunted, the Maroons completed a pitchout and pass play to Giles on the six and Massa crashed over on first down to end the half at 30-0.

After Oneonta ground out 45 yards in its only touchdown surge, Manfro returned from Kingston's 22 to the 45 on the kickoff. Massa and Giles picked up two yards each in slams at the tackle before Giles was off to the races again with a 55-yard sweep around left end.

The second and third stringers created some extra excitement late in the third period when Ronnie Crispino intercepted a pass on the Oneonta 40 and got down to the 2. Billings rammed over on the quarterback sneak.

Oneonta appeared to be in total collapse at this point. A bad pass from center and poorly advised pitchout caused them to surrender the ball on their own 2. Ed Van Loan picked up a half yard at center before Armstrong wound up the day's scoring at 48-7. The Yellow Jackets rallied for one more desperate surge from the 20 and if the clock hadn't run out on them a second touchdown seemed inevitable.

The contest was unusual in many respects. First of course was Massa missing seven straight chances for an extra point. Kingston's actual yardage from scrimmage was less than 150 with only seven first downs but long gainers did the job.

Coach Bill Burke pointed out that Kingston handled the ball fewer times than in any game in recent years. In the fourth quarter they had possession only once, scoring on two plays.

Now comes a rest until Nov. 8 when Port Jervis comes into municipal stadium.

Upsets Haunt Title-Bound College Gridiron Leaders

New York, Oct. 27 (AP) — This is the time of year the titans of college football usually begin looking forward to the gold of bowl games or the glory of conference titles.

Not this time.

The muscle-men, noting the trend of things, are quaking as they come to each game. The upsets haven't been startling but each week some of the big boys are biting the dust.

If Iowa, the punching bag of the Big 10, can whip Ohio State, and Southern California can shut out California—a feat that hadn't been accomplished in 60 games—nothing should be a surprise.

Perhaps the only certainty, and that's going out on a limb, is that Michigan State and Maryland are the class of the country insofar as the records are concerned. Neither has stumbled, and each has shown a wealth of power and an ability to stop the enemy when it counts.

Right behind are once-tied Oklahoma and two all-winning southern powers, Georgia Tech and Duke. The unbeaten list should be reduced by one come Saturday when the Tech and Duke collide head-on at Durham, N. C.

Until this week, California was high up on the list. Then Southern California whipped the Golden Bears, 10-0, by way of showing for the umpteenth time this season that a good defense can cage a fast bunch of backs.

Now the Pacific coast race is up in the air. Cal still could win it, but Southern Cal and U.C.L.A., which like the Trojans, is undefeated, both will have plenty to say. U.C.L.A. meets the Golden Bears this Saturday and if they can answer the question, they might win it.

Georgia Tech and Duke will play the headline game of the south, and the Engineers will rule slight favorites. Both warmed up to their tasks Saturday, Tech clouting Vanderbilt, 30-0, and the Blue Devils conquering previously undefeated Virginia, 21-7. Feared Maryland, which whipped Louisiana State, 34-6, will test its might once against Boston University.

Big 10 Unsettled

The Big Ten race also is unsettled. Illinois and Wisconsin both were supposed to fight it out for the title with the Badgers probably going to the Rose Bowl in any event because the Illi were there last year. Today, the Illini are in the cellar.

Purdue, overlooked in the preseason ratings, and Michigan are leading the loop. And Purdue's 40-12 triumph over Illinois Saturday would indicate the Boilermakers are getting more confident as the season progresses.

Michigan State put in a strong bid to retain its No. 1 national rating by walloping Penn State, 34-7.

Nor is anything settled in the Southwest Conference. However, Texas is looking more and more like the class of the league with each passing week. The Longhorns slugged Arkansas right out of the running Saturday, 20-7, and now take on Southern Methodist. Both are undefeated in league play.

Championship-bound (Big 7) Oklahoma figures to run through a workout at the expense of Iowa State, and Kansas, the runner-up, should have no trouble with Kansas State. Missouri and Bobby Reynolds-less Nebraska play the top game from a competitive standpoint.

Po'keepsie High Beats Middies, 27-18; Newburgh Scores Over Port Jervis, 21-0

Newburgh	1	0	1.000
Poughkeepsie	2	1	.667
Middletown	0	2	.000
Port Jervis	0	2	.000

Poughkeepsie High ran into unexpected forward pass trouble at Middletown, but Sam Kalloch's resurgent powerhouse scuttled the Middies, 27 to 18, for their second DUSO victory in three starts.

Meanwhile, Newburgh Free Academy made its league debut after three non-conference victories by thumping Port Jervis, 21 to 0, at the tri-state city.

Poughkeepsie held Middletown to net gain of one yard rushing but the home gridders picked up 161 yards and their three TDs in the air. The passing of Dick Mills and the receiving of Mike Murphy, end, was outstanding for the losers.

Johnson Stars

Bobby Johnson, Poughkeepsie sensational freshman halfback, galloped 35 yards for the first Blues TD. He recovered a fumble on the Middletown 34 and a few plays later Dom Pacio bulled over from the 1. Preacher Dickens, a reserve back, accounted for the third score and the fourth came on a pass from Leo Elwell to Johnson after Pacio intercepted on the 10.

Against a comparable opponent, NFA showed greater defensive power than Poughkeepsie. The Blues scored 33 points against Port Jervis but yielded two scores. They hiked Kingston's score over Middletown but gave up three touchdowns to the Middies to Kingston's none.

It's going to be a great day come Nov. 8.

Despirito Sets Sights on Record

Lincoln, R. I., Oct. 27 (AP)—Anthony Despirito—America's young riding sensation—moves to Lincoln Downs today with his rights on the all-time single year mark of 388 winners.

The little, 17-year-old apprentice jockey—already the magic 300 figure with 303 winners—hopes to get within hailing distance of the 45-year-old record during Lincoln Downs' 30-day fall meeting.

The record was set back in 1907 by the famed Walter Miller and equalled in 1930 by Willie Shoemaker and Joe Culmone. Last week the darkhaired Lawrence, Mass., rider entered the select group of eight jockeys to have booted home 300 winners in one year.

Despirito is expected to head south to Florida's Tropical Park for the final stages of his assault on the 388-figure. If he has a really hot streak at Lincoln Downs, he could be within striking distance of the record when he leaves here Nov. 29 for the southland.

The youngster brought home three mounts in front last Saturday in the closing program at Rockingham Park. One of those was a nifty performance aboard Larry Ellis in the $10,000 feature race. Despirito brought the 4-year-old gelding up from last place to cop the seven furlong test.

Thirty - eight thoroughbreds carrying a total value of $144,500 changed hands via the claiming route during Delaware Park's 1952 meeting.

Cleveland Browns Top American After Giant, Cardinal Upsets

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The National Football League—where the boys play for "dear old gold and silver"—headed toward the halfway point today with the American Conference engaged in its annual pastime—chasing the Cleveland Browns.

With Lou Groza kicking four field goals, the Brownies rallied to defeat the Washington Redskins, 19-15, yesterday to take a one-game lead in the American Conference.

While the Browns were moving in front, the unbeaten San Francisco 49ers (5-0) held their two-game bulge in the National Conference by blasting the winless Dallas Texans, 48-21, as Hugh McElhenny, Joe Perry and Frankie Albert sparkled.

These two games ran according to form, but two others didn't—and that's why the Browns are on top once again.

Eagles Upset Giants

The New York Giants and Chicago Cardinals, both tied with Cleveland before the day's action, were upset by teams which were decided underdogs.

The Philadelphia Eagles, 15½-point underdogs, stunned the Giants, 14-10, with crunching line play and a brilliant 52-yard punt return by Ed Bawel.

And Pittsburgh, winless in four games and 12-point underdogs, surprised the Cards, 34-28, as Jim Finks passed for three touchdowns.

In other games, Detroit's latent offense exploded for a 52-17 romp over Green Bay, and Los Angeles punched out four touchdowns in the final period to whip the Chicago Bears, 31-7.

For three periods at Cleveland it looked as though Washington, leading 13-9, was headed for an upset. But, in the final session, Groza kicked his fourth field goal—a 35-yarder—and Otto Graham tossed a 56-yard pass, then slipped across from the two to give Cleveland its fourth win in five starts.

Chuck Drazenovich scored both Washington touchdowns on short bursts in the second period, but it was little Eddie Le Baron who set them up with a snappy display of running, passing and ball handling.

At San Francisco, the 49ers scored in every period to hand the Texans their fifth straight setback.

Playing as if their very lives depended upon the outcome, the Eagles pushed the Giants all over the Polo Grounds in the day's biggest surprise. Philadelphia scored its two touchdowns in the second period—on Bowel's nifty run and a Bobby Thomason's 19-yard pass to Bob Walston—then stopped the Giants attack cold in the second half.

Bulldogs Point For Ivy Title

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Yale Bulldogs are growling, anxious to sink their teeth into the Ivy League title—or at least to get a piece of it.

Jordan Olivar, in his first season as coach of the Bulldogs, has an outside chance to tie for the crown, provided Yale can get by Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard on successive Saturdays.

Currently tied with Penn for first place with three victories apiece, Yale shouldn't have too much difficulty with Dartmouth (1-4) this Saturday at New Haven. However, the Bulldogs tangle with Princeton (2-1), the defending champs, on Nov. 15 in a crucial game for them.

Penn, which administered Princeton's only defeat, only has one Ivy League game remaining. The Quakers meet a weak Cornell team (0-2) in the season's finale on Nov. 27 and should experience little trouble with the Big Red.

Yale and Penn both engaged in non-league contests last Saturday. The Bulldogs crushed Lafayette, 47-0, for their fifth victory in sixth starts. The Quakers remained unbeaten in overall season's play with three victories and a pair of ties by deadlocking Navy, 7-7.

In league games, Princeton blanked Cornell, 27-0, and Harvard bowled over Dartmouth, 26-19, for its first Ivy victory as against one setback.

Red Wings Mired In Early Slump

The Detroit Red Wings, preseason favorites to win an unprecedented fifth straight National Hockey League flag, are sailing on rough seas today.

They're in a tie for third place, and around the league fans and reporters are asking:

"What's wrong with the Red Wings?"

The situation came to a head over the weekend when they dropped two games to make their record 3-4-2.

Montreal handed Detroit its worst beating in three seasons Saturday night, winning 9-0. Then last night, the New York Rangers edged the Wings, 3-2, for their first victory of the campaign.

Red Wing General Manager Jack Adams refused to comment on his team's plight. Coach Tommy Ivan said, "if there are going to be any changes we'll make them when we get back to Detroit."

Riding Club Enjoys Outing

The Woodstock Riding Club enjoyed a picnic outing Sunday afternoon at its ring on Ohayo Mountain following its first annual trail ride in which 18 members of the club jogged through brilliant autumnal countryside in the village area. (Wagenfohr photo)

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD S. THIBAUT, Jr.

18 Participate In First Annual Club Trail Ride

Woodstock, Oct. 27—A tingle in the October air, the red-purple sweep of mountains circling the Woodstock Riding Club ring on Ohayo Mountain, 18 riders in bright fall riding garb—all these combined to launch the first annual trail ride sponsored by the club Sunday morning.

Shortly after 10 a. m., the riders and their mounts set off from the ring, filing down the Ohayo Mountain Road, heading for the trail along the Chestnut Hill Road. From the old Zena Road the riders passed through High Woods and thence along the Glasco Turnpike to Plochmann Lane, and finally back to the Ohayo Mountain ring.

Returning to the ring about one o'clock, the riders were greeted by other members who had prepared a large campfire with a circle of benches. Hot dogs were roasting and the coffee on to brew. While about 50 members and their guests consumed in addition to the hot dogs, doughnuts and cake, and about eight homemade pumpkin pies, they listened to old-time songs by William Spanhake and his musicians. A fiddler of renown in this area, Spanhake, assisted by Carlton Hoyt on guitar and mandolin and Biana Sjursen, accordion, called for several sets of square dancing. The public was invited to attend and participate in the festivities.

With the unsaddled horses grazing in the nearby meadows, the curling smoke of the campfire and the lively rhythms of the musicians, there was a true "chuck wagon and cook-out" flavor to the gathering. Highly entertaining recitations were contributed by Carlton Hoyt, one of them Kelly's Dream which appeared in the Hobo News.

Members were so enthusiastic about the event that the hope was expressed that another outdoor get-together might be held before the weather turns cold.

Says Effect Will Be Bad

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—George S. Counts, Liberal party candidate for the U. S. Senate, says the designation of the Korean conflict by "Republican spokesmen" as "Truman's war" will have a bad effect on the morale of U. S. troops in the field and their families at home. Addressing a Manhattan audience last night, he said: "It is obvious that such irresponsible talk—designed to make political capital out of the fear and anguish of parents—can only serve to disarm morally the sons of these same parents as they confront the issue of life and death on the battlefield."

Air Reserves to Hold Meeting Tuesday night

The 9267th Volunteer Air Reserve Training Squadron will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the Air Reserve headquarters, 22 Ferry street.

A lecture and demonstration will be presented outlining the duties and responsibilities of the personnel officer after which an interesting training film will be shown.

In addition, a discussion period will be held with particular emphasis given to the provision of the recently enacted Armed Forces Reserve Act which provides an opportunity for the acceptance of indefinite appointments in the reserve.

Russell J. Maurer, major, USAFR, said today "among the many advantages of the indefinite appointment system over the previous term appointments is the fact that the reserve officer will be placed on an equal footing with the regular air force officer whose appointment is and has been on a permanent basis. Reserve officers who desire additional information in the new reappointment program can obtain this information at the meeting Tuesday night."

Chestertown, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—Six small Adirondack forest fires were brought under control by forest rangers and volunteers over the weekend. District Forester Stanley Farmer of Chestertown said the largest of the five burned over about 100 acres, destroying some heavy timber and a large amount of brush.

The storm hit Samar last night.

It was from that area the plane made its last radio report.

An air force spokesman said there was still hope the plane might have crash-landed safely. The crew had survival equipment.

The B-29 left Andersen Air Force Base on Guam to track a typhoon bearing down on the Philippines. It was scheduled to give weather fixes on the storm, then land at Clark Air Force Base near Manila.

Early Sunday the plane reported its radar equipment was out of order but that it was going into the typhoon for a close fix.

Bulldogs Point For Ivy Title

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Yale Bulldogs are growling, anxious to sink their teeth into the Ivy League title—or at least to get a piece of it.

Jordan Olivar, in his first season as coach of the Bulldogs, has an outside chance to tie for the crown, provided Yale can get by Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard on successive Saturdays.

Currently tied with Penn for first place with three victories apiece, Yale shouldn't have too much difficulty with Dartmouth (1-4) this Saturday at New Haven. However, the Bulldogs tangle with Princeton (2-1), the defending champs, on Nov. 15 in a crucial game for them.

Penn, which administered Princeton's only defeat, only has one Ivy League game remaining. The Quakers meet a weak Cornell team (0-2) in the season's finale on Nov. 27 and should experience little trouble with the Big Red.

Yale and Penn both engaged in non-league contests last Saturday. The Bulldogs crushed Lafayette, 47-0, for their fifth victory in sixth starts. The Quakers remained unbeaten in overall season's play with three victories and a pair of ties by deadlocking Navy, 7-7.

In league games, Princeton blanked Cornell, 27-0, and Harvard bowled over Dartmouth, 26-19, for its first Ivy victory as against one setback.

Red Wings Mired In Early Slump

The Detroit Red Wings, preseason favorites to win an unprecedented fifth straight National Hockey League flag, are sailing on rough seas today.

They're in a tie for third place, and around the league fans and reporters are asking:

"What's wrong with the Red Wings?"

The situation came to a head over the weekend when they dropped two games to make their record 3-4-2.

Montreal handed Detroit its worst beating in three seasons Saturday night, winning 9-0. Then last night, the New York Rangers edged the Wings, 3-2, for their first victory of the campaign.

Red Wing General Manager Jack Adams refused to comment on his team's plight. Coach Tommy Ivan said, "if there are going to be any changes we'll make them when we get back to Detroit."

Riding Club Enjoys Outing

The Woodstock Riding Club enjoyed a picnic outing Sunday afternoon at its ring on Ohayo Mountain following its first annual trail ride in which 18 members of the club jogged through brilliant autumnal countryside in the village area. (Wagenfohr photo)

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

18 Participate In First Annual Club Trail Ride

Woodstock, Oct. 27—A tingle in the October air, the red-purple sweep of mountains circling the Woodstock Riding Club ring on Ohayo Mountain, 18 riders in bright fall riding garb—all these combined to launch the first annual trail ride sponsored by the club Sunday morning.

Shortly after 10 a. m., the riders and their mounts set off from the ring, filing down the Ohayo Mountain Road, heading for the trail along the Chestnut Hill Road. From the old Zena Road the riders passed through High Woods and thence along the Glasco Turnpike to Plochmann Lane, and finally back to the Ohayo Mountain ring.

Returning to the ring about one o'clock, the riders were greeted by other members who had prepared a large campfire with a circle of benches. Hot dogs were roasting and the coffee on to brew. While about 50 members and their guests consumed in addition to the hot dogs, doughnuts and cake, and about eight homemade pumpkin pies, they listened to old-time songs by William Spanhake and his musicians. A fiddler of renown in this area, Spanhake, assisted by Carlton Hoyt on guitar and mandolin and Biana Sjursen, accordion, called for several sets of square dancing. The public was invited to attend and participate in the festivities.

With the unsaddled horses grazing in the nearby meadows, the curling smoke of the campfire and the lively rhythms of the musicians, there was a true "chuck wagon and cook-out" flavor to the gathering. Highly entertaining recitations were contributed by Carlton Hoyt, one of them Kelly's Dream which appeared in the Hobo News.

Members were so enthusiastic about the event that the hope was expressed that another outdoor get-together might be held before the weather turns cold.

Says Effect Will Be Bad

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—George S. Counts, Liberal party candidate for the U. S. Senate, says the designation of the Korean conflict by "Republican spokesmen" as "Truman's war" will have a bad effect on the morale of U. S. troops in the field and their families at home. Addressing a Manhattan audience last night, he said: "It is obvious that such irresponsible talk—designed to make political capital out of the fear and anguish of parents—can only serve to disarm morally the sons of these same parents as they confront the issue of life and death on the battlefield."

Air Reserves to Hold Meeting Tuesday night

The 9267th Volunteer Air Reserve Training Squadron will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the Air Reserve headquarters, 22 Ferry street.

A lecture and demonstration will be presented outlining the duties and responsibilities of the personnel officer after which an interesting training film will be shown.

In addition, a discussion period will be held with particular emphasis given to the provision of the recently enacted Armed Forces Reserve Act which provides an opportunity for the acceptance of indefinite appointments in the reserve.

Russell J. Maurer, major, USAFR, said today "among the many advantages of the indefinite appointment system over the previous term appointments is the fact that the reserve officer will be placed on an equal footing with the regular air force officer whose appointment is and has been on a permanent basis. Reserve officers who desire additional information in the new reappointment program can obtain this information at the meeting Tuesday night."

W. Virginia Smoke Blankets Catskills

Smoke drifting northward from serious forest fires in West Virginia blanketed the eastern seaboard today and caused an added fire hazard in the Catskill Mountain area by limiting the visibility of fire watchers, it was reported this noon by Aaron Van De Bogart, district forest ranger.

Visibility from area fire towers was cut to about one-half mile, he said.

Fires in northern Ulster were apparently all under control by this morning Van De Bogart said.

Quick action in spotting one small fire on Meads Mountain on Sunday, plus the cooperation of the Woodstock Fire Department, prevented a serious fire in that area, the ranger reported. The fire, which started in leaves along the shoulder of the road, probably was caused by a cigarette stub tossed from an automomile, he said.

The fire in the Shokan area, which had been patrolled for three days, was declared out Sunday night.

Victim of Injuries

Easton, Pa., Oct. 27 (AP)—Miss Elizabeth Poff, 30, died in Easton Hospital Saturday three hours after she was struck by a truck on a downtown Easton street. Miss Poff, a native of Easton, was visiting her parents here for the weekend. She was a teacher in the Hicksville, N. Y., school system. The driver of the truck, Kenneth S. Helm, 27, of Easton is being held for investigation.

Two Cars in Weekend Accidents

Harry Houghton, 34, his wife, Fannie, 31, and a passenger, Theodore Johnson, 76, all of Utica, were injured about 4 p. m. Saturday when Houghton's automobile ran off the Sawkill end of the New York State Thruway and struck a five-foot mound of rocks and dirt, according to a state police report. All were admitted to Kingston Hospital. (Anner photo)

Four of the six persons reported injured in a two-car collision on Route 28 at Glenford early Sunday morning were occupants of the above 1942 sedan, which sheriff's office men said was driven by Frederick Kellerhouse, 25, of West Hurley. (Anner photo)

says "man is nothing. He is the creature of the state."

"We must be on guard against that attack on every front, on every road from which it can approach us," Eisenhower said.

If the United States is to live in freedom and peace with the rest of the world, it must do so through cooperation, Eisenhower said. And so, in Korea, he went on, the population that wants to defend itself must not be denied the self-respecting right of contributing its utmost.

Will Consult

"Entirely aside from any partisan thought in my head," Eisenhower said, "if the American people want to make me the executive head of the government for the next four years, I shall go there and consult with the people on their own ground. . . ."

His words were drowned out in a roar of applause.

"From that purpose, I shall not be deterred by any criticism any partisan wants to bring against me," Eisenhower shouted.

He struck at the Democrats on another front, saying it seems strange that charges of bigotry are being raised in this campaign.

"I deplore every single kind of argument, charge or false assertion that is brought forward to accuse me or any man with this most evil of all crimes in our daily lives," he asserted.

Expects Charges

"As we move into this last week of the political campaign we may expect new barrages of charges from every corner," the general said. "Every conceivable kind of charge will be hurled," he continued, that his "great crusade" wants to allow aged people to live and die in poverty, yank out the support of agriculture, bust labor, and social security and the like.

But, he said, these should be ignored and he pledged again that he will substitute good government for one that has allowed "subversion and crookedness to creep in."

"So long as we remain aware of our obligations to 156 million citizens we are not going to play off one class against another in the hope of getting a few more votes," Eisenhower said.

"A government where every man is secure within his country and without is the best tribute that can be paid to our war dead," he added.

Three Men Killed

one to St. Luke's Hospital here.

No names were released immediately.

Engine Failure Reported

At Stewart Field, a spokesman said the plane radioed after its takeoff at 9:17 a. m. that one engine had gone out.

The Field Operations Office instructed the pilot to give full throttle to the remaining engine, and try to make it back to the field.

A few moments later, the pilot radioed he was "ditching into the river."

Witnesses said the plane sank instantly, but Stewart Field said it stayed afloat about three minutes. The water is more than 100 feet deep at the point where the plane went down.

One survivor swam about three quarters of a mile to safety.

Two others were kept afloat by Donald Dooley, who paddled out in a rowboat from the Newburgh Yacht Club. They later were taken aboard a power cruiser from the club.

The plane was carrying a party of officers to Burlington.

Crew members all were assigned to Stewart Field.

The survivors were identified as Maj. Vincent J. Rhodes, 46; and Capt. Robert J. Howard, 35, Lowell, Mass., and Frank N. Olver, 33, of Middletown, a civilian employed at the base.

Exposed Elevation

The word "area" originally meant a raised space in a field exposed on all sides to the wind, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Hunt for Killer

death. It was thought he may have recognized the illegal hunter or hunters since he issues many of the hunting licenses in this area.

Theory Is Cited

Police of Sloatsburg, where Nugent lived, theorized that Nugent and Simpson were driving through the woods in a jeep en route to their hunting area when they saw poachers dragging the deer. The deer season opens Nov. 15, but squirrel and partridge hunting is now legal.

The two men may have approached the poachers, Sloatsburg police believe, and the shooting followed. State police would not comment on their investigation of the shootings.

Shotgun pellets riddled the right side of Simpson's body. Nugent, a World War 2 veteran who lost both feet with a tank destroyer battalion and walked with artificial limbs, was blasted in the left side and in the head.

Shells Are Found

Five empty shotgun shells lay nearby. They were sent to state police laboratories at Troy. Nugent was known as a staunch conservationist and an enemy of illegal hunters.

Police said the two men had been dead since about 3 p. m. (EST) Saturday. They had left their homes only an hour earlier.

A widespread search by land and air for the two had started at 1 a. m. yesterday after they failed to return home, and their wives became alarmed.

It was about 10 hours later when the two youths—Edward Brentnall, of Sloatsburg, and Leonard Mathius, of Mahwah, N. J.—came upon the bodies by accident near the New Jersey border. They reported the discovery to Tuxedo Park police.

The area, in Orange county near the Rockland county boundary, is heavily wooded and usually visited by only expert hunters. Only jeeps can negotiate many of its tiny trails, which are overgrown wagon roads and paths left by lumberjacks years ago or by miners who worked the neighborhood's now-abandoned iron mines during the American war for independence.

Simpson, the father of four children, was treasurer of the North Jersey Trust Co., of Ridgewood, N. J. Nugent was the father of two daughters.

Onteora Central School Briefs

$25,000 Is Voted

The Onteora Central School District approved an appropriation of $25,000 Tuesday night for transportation of pupils during 1952-53. A total of 236 votes were cast in favor, 47 opposed and seven voided.

Nelson Shultis of Wittenberg and Gene Milanesi of Phoenicia served as inspectors of election. Acting as clerks and tellers were Ruby C. Brown of Samsonville, Hazel D. Osborne of Olive Bridge, Florence Epstein of Phoenicia, Jane G. Bode of Ashokan, Mildred McGloughlin of Olive Bridge, Cora R. Ford of Shandaken, Lena R. Burgher of West Shokan and Natalie Adams of Chichester.

Leadership Workshop

Howard H. Mosher, director of adult education in the Onteora Central School will participate in a leadership workshop to be held at the Wappingers Central School, Wappingers Falls, November 14 and 15. This workshop, one of a series of 29 held throughout the state during the present school year, is sponsored by the Bureau of Adult Education, State Education Department. Directors from over 60 communities in this area of the state have been invited to attend.

Workshop sessions will assist directors with the organization of activities concerned with civic education, the community ambassador project and homemaking education. Other matters relating to administration, supervision and evaluation will be discussed.

R. J. Pulling, chief, Bureau of Adult Education, announces that the following State Education Department members will serve as consultants for this program: Dr. Kathleen Rhodes, Bureau of Home Economics Education; Mrs. Rosa R. Fox, Mrs. Dorothy J. Mial, Arthur P. Crabtree, Warren C. Shaver and Presco Anderson, Bureau of Adult Education.

Straw Poll

The ninth grade social studies class of the Onteora Central School recently held a presidential straw poll election in grades seven through eleven. Students were required to register before voting. The results showed General Eisenhower well ahead with 165 votes, 79 per cent of the votes cast. Governor Stevenson trailed with 44 votes or 21 percent of the votes cast.

Miss Zelie Appointed

Miss Patricia Zelie was appointed adult education secretary for the Onteora Central School adult education program. Miss Zelie will work on the night on which classes are held and will have charge of attendance, bulletins, payrolls and other secretarial duties connected with the program.

PTA Holds Meeting

Charles A. Traphagen, guidance director of the Onteora Central School, addressed a meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association Tuesday evening at the Parish Hall in Phoenicia with more than 200 persons attending.

The functions of the guidance department are many and varied, Traphagen said, pointing out that one of his foremost duties involved the solution of both the scholastic and psychological problems of children under his supervision. While a student may be a brilliant scholar, he may be completely lacking in the social graces. His inability to get along with others might make him a failure in life instead of the success which his intelligence deserves. The guidance director, therefore, will endeavor to get this boy or girl interested in extra-curricular and social activities, will point out his faults and help him to correct them and will start him on the road to being a well-balanced, successful and, most important of all, a happy person.

Another important function of the guidance director is to start in the freshman year to get the student interested in what he wants to do upon graduation from high school. For instance, if he would like to earn a scholarship to some college, he must plan ahead, learn the subject and unit requirements of that college and do his best to maintain an achievement average above 85 per cent all through high school.

The U. S. government lists over 20,000 jobs in ten classifications. It issues a book called Occupations Outlook Handbook which lists the latest trend in occupations and gives the future outlook in every one of the ten job classifications, Traphagen said. Due to the fact that a great majority of these occupations are not practiced in this area, most of the students in the Onteora Central School are unfamiliar with them. Traphagen said that he attempted to familiarize the boys and girls with different occupations by the use of films and career conferences. On the subject of career conferences, Traphagen asked the meeting for volunteers to talk to the children on their line of work.

Varsity to Practice

Varsity basketball practice will commence November 1. Approximately 60 boys are registered and expect to answer the first call for candidates. Faces Federal Hearing

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 27 (AP)—A Nashville youth today faces a hearing on federal charges of kidnaping and car theft here as police in three states hunt his partners in a wild highway kidnaping spree. Virgil Le May, 15, was placed under $12,000 bond in Nashville Saturday when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner J. W. Moore. He protested that he was forced to take part in the wholesale highway kidnaping of 20 persons in three days on penalty of death. "I didn't kidnap anybody," young Le May protested. "He forced me into it!" Le May referred to James F. Hill, 29, of Framingham, Mass., who with Charles E. Hopkins, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla., also is charged in the case.

W. Virginia Smoke Blankets Catskills

Smoke drifting northward from serious forest fires in West Virginia blanketed the eastern seaboard today and caused an added fire hazard in the Catskill Mountain area by limiting the visibility of fire watchers, it was reported this noon by Aaron Van De Bogart, district forest ranger.

Visibility from area fire towers was cut to about one-half mile, he said.

Fires in northern Ulster were apparently all under control by this morning Van De Bogart said.

Quick action in spotting one small fire on Meads Mountain on Sunday, plus the cooperation of the Woodstock Fire Department, prevented a serious fire in that area, the ranger reported. The fire, which started in leaves along the shoulder of the road, probably was caused by a cigarette stub tossed from an automomile, he said.

The fire in the Shokan area, which had been patrolled for three days, was declared out Sunday night.

Helm, 27, of Easton is being held for investigation.

Two Cars in Weekend Accidents

Harry Houghton, 34, his wife, Fannie, 31, and a passenger, Theodore Johnson, 76, all of Utica, were injured about 4 p. m. Saturday when Houghton's automobile ran off the Sawkill end of the New York State Thruway and struck a five-foot mound of rocks and dirt, according to a state police report. All were admitted to Kingston Hospital. (Anner photo)

Four of the six persons reported injured in a two-car collision on Route 28 at Glenford early Sunday morning were occupants of the above 1942 sedan, which sheriff's office men said was driven by Frederick Kellerhouse, 25, of West Hurley. (Anner photo)

says "man is nothing. He is the creature of the state."

"We must be on guard against that attack on every front, on every road from which it can approach us," Eisenhower said.

If the United States is to live in freedom and peace with the rest of the world, it must do so through cooperation, Eisenhower said. And so, in Korea, he went on, the population that wants to defend itself must not be denied the self-respecting right of contributing its utmost.

Will Consult

"Entirely aside from any partisan thought in my head," Eisenhower said, "if the American people want to make me the executive head of the government for the next four years, I shall go there and consult with the people on their own ground. . . ."

His words were drowned out in a roar of applause.

"From that purpose, I shall not be deterred by any criticism any partisan wants to bring against me," Eisenhower shouted.

He struck at the Democrats on another front, saying it seems strange that charges of bigotry are being raised in this campaign.

"I deplore every single kind of argument, charge or false assertion that is brought forward to accuse me or any man with this most evil of all crimes in our daily lives," he asserted.

Expects Charges

"As we move into this last week of the political campaign we may expect new barrages of charges from every corner," the general said. "Every conceivable kind of charge will be hurled," he continued, that his "great crusade" wants to allow aged people to live and die in poverty, yank out the support of agriculture, bust labor, and social security and the like.

But, he said, these should be ignored and he pledged again that he will substitute good government for one that has allowed "subversion and crookedness to creep in."

"So long as we remain aware of our obligations to 156 million citizens we are not going to play off one class against another in the hope of getting a few more votes," Eisenhower said.

"A government where every man is secure within his country and without is the best tribute that can be paid to our war dead," he added.

Three Men Killed

one to St. Luke's Hospital here.

No names were released immediately.

Engine Failure Reported

At Stewart Field, a spokesman said the plane radioed after its takeoff at 9:17 a. m. that one engine had gone out.

The Field Operations Office instructed the pilot to give full throttle to the remaining engine, and try to make it back to the field.

A few moments later, the pilot radioed he was "ditching into the river."

Witnesses said the plane sank instantly, but Stewart Field said it stayed afloat about three minutes. The water is more than 100 feet deep at the point where the plane went down.

One survivor swam about three quarters of a mile to safety.

Two others were kept afloat by Donald Dooley, who paddled out in a rowboat from the Newburgh Yacht Club. They later were taken aboard a power cruiser from the club.

The plane was carrying a party of officers to Burlington.

Crew members all were assigned to Stewart Field.

The survivors were identified as Maj. Vincent J. Rhodes, 46; and Capt. Robert J. Howard, 35, Lowell, Mass., and Frank N. Olver, 33, of Middletown, a civilian employed at the base.

Exposed Elevation

The word "area" originally meant a raised space in a field exposed on all sides to the wind, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Hunt for Killer

death. It was thought he may have recognized the illegal hunter or hunters since he issues many of the hunting licenses in this area.

Theory Is Cited

Police of Sloatsburg, where Nugent lived, theorized that Nugent and Simpson were driving through the woods in a jeep en route to their hunting area when they saw poachers dragging the deer. The deer season opens Nov. 15, but squirrel and partridge hunting is now legal.

The two men may have approached the poachers, Sloatsburg police believe, and the shooting followed. State police would not comment on their investigation of the shootings.

Shotgun pellets riddled the right side of Simpson's body. Nugent, a World War 2 veteran who lost both feet with a tank destroyer battalion and walked with artificial limbs, was blasted in the left side and in the head.

Shells Are Found

Five empty shotgun shells lay nearby. They were sent to state police laboratories at Troy. Nugent was known as a staunch conservationist and an enemy of illegal hunters.

Police said the two men had been dead since about 3 p. m. (EST) Saturday. They had left their homes only an hour earlier.

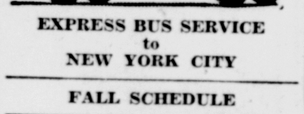

A widespread search by land and air for the two had started at 1 a. m. yesterday after they failed to return home, and their wives became alarmed.

It was about 10 hours later when the two youths—Edward Brentnall, of Sloatsburg, and Leonard Mathius, of Mahwah, N. J.—came upon the bodies by accident near the New Jersey border. They reported the discovery to Tuxedo Park police.

The area, in Orange county near the Rockland county boundary, is heavily wooded and usually visited by only expert hunters. Only jeeps can negotiate many of its tiny trails, which are overgrown wagon roads and paths left by lumberjacks years ago or by miners who worked the neighborhood's now-abandoned iron mines during the American war for independence.

Simpson, the father of four children, was treasurer of the North Jersey Trust Co., of Ridgewood, N. J. Nugent was the father of two daughters.

Onteora Central School Briefs

The Onteora Central School District approved an appropriation of $25,000 Tuesday night for transportation of pupils during 1952-53. A total of 236 votes were cast in favor, 47 opposed and seven voided.

Nelson Shultis of Wittenberg and Gene Milanesi of Phoenicia served as inspectors of election. Acting as clerks and tellers were Ruby C. Brown of Samsonville, Hazel D. Osborne of Olive Bridge, Florence Epstein of Phoenicia, Jane G. Bode of Ashokan, Mildred McGloughlin of Olive Bridge, Cora R. Ford of Shandaken, Lena R. Burgher of West Shokan and Natalie Adams of Chichester.

Leadership Workshop

Howard H. Mosher, director of adult education in the Onteora Central School will participate in a leadership workshop to be held at the Wappingers Central School, Wappingers Falls, November 14 and 15. This workshop, one of a series of 29 held throughout the state during the present school year, is sponsored by the Bureau of Adult Education, State Education Department. Directors from over 60 communities in this area of the state have been invited to attend.

Workshop sessions will assist directors with the organization of activities concerned with civic education, the community ambassador project and homemaking education. Other matters relating to administration, supervision and evaluation will be discussed.

R. J. Pulling, chief, Bureau of Adult Education, announces that the following State Education Department members will serve as consultants for this program: Dr. Kathleen Rhodes, Bureau of Home Economics Education; Mrs. Rosa R. Fox, Mrs. Dorothy J. Mial, Arthur P. Crabtree, Warren C. Shaver and Presco Anderson, Bureau of Adult Education.

Straw Poll

The ninth grade social studies class of the Onteora Central School recently held a presidential straw poll election in grades seven through eleven. Students were required to register before voting. The results showed General Eisenhower well ahead with 165 votes, 79 per cent of the votes cast. Governor Stevenson trailed with 44 votes or 21 percent of the votes cast.

Miss Zelie Appointed

Miss Patricia Zelie was appointed adult education secretary for the Onteora Central School adult education program. Miss Zelie will work on the night on which classes are held and will have charge of attendance, bulletins, payrolls and other secretarial duties connected with the program.

PTA Holds Meeting

Charles A. Traphagen, guidance director of the Onteora Central School, addressed a meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association Tuesday evening at the Parish Hall in Phoenicia with more than 200 persons attending.

The functions of the guidance department are many and varied, Traphagen said, pointing out that one of his foremost duties involved the solution of both the scholastic and psychological problems of children under his supervision. While a student may be a brilliant scholar, he may be completely lacking in the social graces. His inability to get along with others might make him a failure in life instead of the success which his intelligence deserves. The guidance director, therefore, will endeavor to get this boy or girl interested in extra-curricular and social activities, will point out his faults and help him to correct them and will start him on the road to being a well-balanced, successful and, most important of all, a happy person.

Another important function of the guidance director is to start in the freshman year to get the student interested in what he wants to do upon graduation from high school. For instance, if he would like to earn a scholarship to some college, he must plan ahead, learn the subject and unit requirements of that college and do his best to maintain an achievement average above 85 per cent all through high school.

The U. S. government lists over 20,000 jobs in ten classifications. It issues a book called Occupations Outlook Handbook which lists the latest trend in occupations and gives the future outlook in every one of the ten job classifications, Traphagen said. Due to the fact that a great majority of these occupations are not practiced in this area, most of the students in the Onteora Central School are unfamiliar with them. Traphagen said that he attempted to familiarize the boys and girls with different occupations by the use of films and career conferences. On the subject of carcer conferences, Traphagen asked the meeting for volunteers to talk to the children on their line of work.

Varsity to Practice

Varsity basketball practice will commence November 1. Approximately 60 boys are registered and expect to answer the first call for candidates. Coach Earl Helmbreck has completed a 12-game basketball schedule. The Onteora Indians will play six home games this year, the first home game being with Downsville on the Onteora court November 21. Edward Witko will coach the JV basketball team.

Lamont Charges Denied in City

Charges by Corliss Lamont, American Labor Party candidate for the U. S. Senate, that he was barred from speaking in Kingston Saturday were denied today by spokesmen for the city administration, the YMCA and the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Lamont, a Columbia University professor, said arrangements for him to speak at the YMCA and Stuyvesant Hotel had been "canceled at the last minute and the fees returned." A spokesman for Lamont said an effort was also made to hire the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, but a reservation was refused. The auditorium was not in use, he stated.

Against Rules

Burton S. Tandy, executive secretary of the YMCA, stated it was against the rules of the board of directors for political rallies to be held at the YMCA and that the American Labor Party had been so advised.

Frederick J. Eisler, managing director of the Stuyvesant, said the hotel sought to maintain a non-partisan policy and canceled the meeting upon disclosure it was to be a political rally.

It was pointed out by Bernhardt S. Kramer, city clerk, that application for use of the auditorium had not been received until Friday afternoon. This was "short notice," he stated, in view of the fact that high school has been using the auditorium for gym classes and lunch room pending completion of the field house. He explained that the city had no men working at the auditorium Saturday and that a meeting would have entailed overtime work to clear out the auditorium."

Used for Conventions

Kramer stated also that the city had not been in the habit of renting the auditorium for political rallies, although it had been used for political conventions.

Joseph Kooperman, Ellenville, local spokesman for the American Labor Party, charged that "pressure" because of the American Labor Party "stand on Korea, and the witch-hunters a la McCarthy, have denied the right of the American Labor Party to have a free assemblage in the city of Kingston. This is a shameful spectacle and nothing for the city administration, spouting civil rights, to be proud of. The Republican administration has the responsibility of guaranteeing the right of assemblage and further, to see to it that a place is made available for public meeting. Theory without practice is only lip service."

Lamont spoke over Radio Station WKNY Saturday evening and later read the Bill of Rights from the steps of the Ulster County Court House. Approximately 20 persons were present.

He said in his radio talk that "my right to present the truth as I see it has been denied by the city of Kingston."

Lamont Charges Denied in City

Charges by Corliss Lamont, American Labor Party candidate for the U. S. Senate, that he was barred from speaking in Kingston Saturday were denied today by spokesmen for the city administration, the YMCA and the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Lamont, a Columbia University professor, said arrangements for him to speak at the YMCA and Stuyvesant Hotel had been "canceled at the last minute and the fees returned." A spokesman for Lamont said an effort was also made to hire the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, but a reservation was refused. The auditorium was not in use, he stated.

Against Rules

Burton S. Tandy, executive secretary of the YMCA, stated it was against the rules of the board of directors for political rallies to be held at the YMCA and that the American Labor Party had been so advised.
